Loyalty Is Pledged For 400,000,000

George VI Given Addresses From All Empire Parts

Unparalleled Scene Witnessed on Day Before Coronation When Prime Ministers of Canada and Other Dominions and India and Colonial Leaders Assure King of Their Peoples' Support

"I Count On Your Help," Says Monarch

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, May 11.—"I stand on the threshold of a new life," King George VI told the prime ministers of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa and the representatives of India and the colonies at Buckingham Palace today on the eve of his Coronation.

These spokesmen from Empire countries came to Buckingham Palace through a driving rain to pledge allegiance of the 400,000,000 people they represent. Loyal addresses to the King were presented.

The weather forecast for tomorrow was "chilly, overcast skies." Yet the enthusiasm of the thousands milling through the streets, viewing nobles and anticipating tomorrow's Coronation and procession, remained undampened.

The address presented to His Majesty by Prime Minister King was that adopted by the Parliament of Canada. Each address was read in turn, the representatives, one by one, Indian potentates, Empire statesmen and colonial leaders passing before the King.

WILL ALWAYS REMEMBER
Then the King, in moving words, to which the Queen listened intently, replied:

"It is with sincere pleasure that the Queen and I welcome you all this morning and I sincerely thank the prime ministers of the Dominions for their addresses. I shall always remember with gratitude the kind words in which you have conveyed to me the loyalty and devotion of my peoples in many parts of the world. I am happy to think that you who speak for me will be with me at the solemn service in Westminster Abbey tomorrow."

JUBILEE RECALLED
"Only two years ago, at a gathering like this, my dear father received his prime ministers and others representing the overseas Empire and India. That was the Silver Jubilee—a time when the people of our Empire united to acknowledge with boundless generosity the achievements of his great reign. In moving words my father

Subway Trains Run All Night

London, May 11.—London's underground railways have been ordered to run all night long for the first time, giving the present Coronation that unique feature in history. More than 10,000,000 "passenger journeys" were expected to be made in the twenty-four-hour period by underground and street car.

Great Spectacle Despite Rain

Crowds in London So Great Travel From Point to Point Difficult

London, May 11.—A chilling rain—the kind that soaks to the skin—emptied into London's festooned streets today. Yet the spirits of the nation were hardly dampened.

Streets were packed, restaurants were packed, trains were packed and subways were jammed, delayed and stifling. Each hour brought the Coronation closer, and 25,000 more people to the nation's capital, which looked like a great bazaar. Street sellers of colored caps, buttons, badges, noise-makers and emblems did a tremendous business.

SLOW TRAVELING
The question for individuals was now resolved into one of getting to the procession route. Planning and all anticipatory worries were bygone and it was simply a case of the early bird getting the worm. All morning newspapers printed detailed maps, warnings and hints of how to get there and get away. The greatest lunch box business in history was under way.

EARLY SPECTATORS
Along the route of tomorrow's procession hundreds of enthusiasts this morning already had taken up favorable positions, armed with seats, cushions, food, drink, umbrellas and blankets.

Outside Buckingham Palace, more than a full day before the Coronation, the first hardy enthusiasts were in strategic positions, ready to defend their posts for more than twenty-four hours of waiting for a momentary glimpse of their sovereign and Queen Elizabeth.

They mounted camp stools on the curbstones and settled down with full complements of rugs, flasks and baskets of provisions to combat the cold and rain. The early arrivals had

Canadians In Abbey Will Total 200

Prime Minister King Heads Group Including Lieutenant-Governors, Parliamentarians, Officers and Others Who Will See Coronation

London, May 11.—Fortunate among the nearly 8,000 Canadians who flocked to London for the Coronation, about 200 from the Dominion have received command cards to attend the Coronation in Westminster Abbey.

They will represent cities and towns from coast to coast, and will be headed by Prime Minister King, a group of cabinet officers and others high in the governments of Canada and its provinces, and leading churchmen.

Two Canadians will have the honor of walking in the colorful entrance procession that will precede the King and Queen into the Abbey. Prime Minister King will walk just behind Prime Minister Baldwin, while High Commissioner Vincent Massey will carry the standard of Canada. Mr. King will take his seat to the right, adjacent to the royal box, while Mr.

Massey will sit with Mrs. Massey in close proximity to the theatre.

IN GALLERIES

Other Canadians in the Abbey will be placed in the galleries to the right and left of the sanctuary and on the long facing tiers that now occupy the main body of the church below the organ screen. Canadian newspapermen were allotted seats just beyond members of the British House of Commons at the side of the sanctuary.

Good Wishes From Governor

Hon. Aulay Morrison, Official Administrator, this morning received the following cable from Lieut-Governor E. W. Hamber in London: "To the Administrator, Government House, Victoria: Please convey the good wishes of Mrs. Hamber and myself to all concerned for the success and enjoyment of the Coronation festivities. — Hamber, Lieut-Governor."

King's Coach for Tomorrow's Procession

Above is an official picture of the Royal coach in which King George VI and Queen Elizabeth will ride to Westminster Abbey tomorrow for the Coronation and from the Abbey back to Buckingham Palace. In the foreground are figures of three boys representing England, Scotland and Ireland holding up the Imperial Crown of Great Britain. The two figures in the foreground represent the act of drawing the carriage and announcing the approach of the "Monarch of the Ocean." The coach was finished in 1761 and weighs four tons.

Canadian Youngsters From Oshawa First To Take Up Vigil In Trafalgar Square; Coronation Scenes Unprecedented, Says Victoria Correspondent

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
Special Cable to The Vancouver Daily Province

London, May 11.—They are taking up their long vigil tonight on the route of tomorrow's procession in Trafalgar Square.

Before Victoria finished breakfast they had started to camp out for the night; the countless crowds of London on their camp stools with motor rugs, thermos bottles and valises full of sandwiches. By the time Victoria goes home to dinner hundreds of thousands will line London's main streets waiting for the royal coach to pass tomorrow.

For a glimpse of the young King wearing his crown two Canadian youngsters were the very first to begin the night's long watch. They were Mary and Arthur Poulter of Oshawa who landed in London today and with their parents hurried immediately to Trafalgar, where I talked with them this afternoon. They had taken possession of a wooden bench hard by Napoleon's statue, with all their baggage strewn about them. There they intend to stay until the procession passes tomorrow.

A gentle rain was falling, but Mary and Arthur didn't care. They were in London to see the King and Queen and they huddled together contentedly, sucking sticks of English toffee and gazing up wide-eyed at Nelson, black against the sky. Arthur still wore his blue hockey sweater with the name of the Toronto Maple Leafs on it.

Eighteen Candidates To Contest Four Victoria Seats In General Poll

Four Parties Have Full Slates in City and B.C. Constructives Nominate Two; All Retiring Members Stand Again

When nominations closed today at the Court House before Returning Officer H. E. A. Courtney eighteen candidates stood nominated to contest the four Victoria seats in the B.C. Legislature at the general provincial election on June 1.

Four parties — Liberals, Conservatives, C.C.F. and Social Credit, have full tickets of four nominees each. The fifth group, B.C. Constructives, named only two candidates.

In contrast to the 1933 election, when twenty-nine candidates of a variety of shades of opinion took the field, the 1937 contest becomes practically a straight party affair in Victoria. No independents filed papers.

All of the four city members of the last Legislature are standing: Hon. John Hart and Byron Johnson for the Liberals; Herbert Anscomb for the Conservatives; and Rev. Robert Connell for the Constructives. Mr. Anscomb sat in the last House as an Independent. Mr. Connell started as C.C.F. leader, but split with his party and formed his own wing.

Following is the complete nomination list with proposers and assentors:

Baking Powder Death Acquittal

Wholesale Firm Cleared of Charge of Criminal Negligence in Burnaby

Vancouver, May 11.—Macdonald and Wilson Limited, wholesale importers, were acquitted by Judge Harper in county court this morning of charges of criminal negligence arising from the death of Mrs. Elwood Dunbar.

Mrs. Dunbar died in Burnaby, January 14, after eating biscuits made from Plenty-For-All Baking Powder, which allegedly contained sodium silico fluoride supplied by the Macdonald and Wilson firm to the baking powder manufacturers.

Six Named In Saanich

A surprise nomination in Saanich today raised the number of candidates there in the general election to six. Frank Bertram Shearman, a retired farmer of Saanichton, submitted nomination papers this morning as an independent.

The other five in the field are: Norman W. Whittaker, K.C., Liberal; Leslie F. Osborne, Conservative; T. Guy Sheppard, C.C.F.; W. E. Peirce, B.C. Constructive; and Major A. H. Jukes, Social Credit.

Esquimalt nominations are as follows: C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, Liberal; E. V. Finland, Conservative; Don Smith, C.C.F.; Mrs. E. Boydell, Social Credit; John William Archer, Ind.

In the islands the nominations are: Alexander McDonald, Liberal; Capt. A. Macgregor Macintosh, Conservative; Mrs. Grace Martin, C.C.F.; and Gordon H. Brown, Social Credit.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS

After Coronation Day festivities, candidates of all parties will plunge into a strenuous election schedule and on each week-day until polling on June 1 there will be a meeting in some part of the city.

The four city Liberals, who opened last night at Victoria West Social Hall, will resume Thursday night at Quindry Street School, corner of Finlayson Avenue. Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, may be unable to attend as he is representing the province at a music festival in the cathedral. Friday night the Liberals will hold a big rally in the Chamber of Commerce.

Rev. Robert Connell, B.C. Constructive leader, announced the two main meetings in his campaign here, the opener at the Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday night when J. S. Taylor, M.P., and W. E. Pierce, will support the leader and Mrs. Margaret Hall, and the final rally at the same hall on May 29. Mrs. Hall will hold meetings for women at the Truth Centre on May 19 and 26.

A. D. Greer, the provincial leader of the Social Credit party, switched his plans at the last minute and is running in Mackenzie riding instead of Vancouver-Point Grey.

T. Guy Sheppard, the C.C.F. candidate in Saanich, announces he will open his campaign at Mount Tolmie Hall on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Simpson Has Engagement Ring

Monte, France, May 11.—Mrs. Wallis Warfield today wore for the first time an engagement ring from the Duke of Windsor. An announcement to this effect was made by their spokesman, Herman Rogers.

MANY PLANES IN BILBAO RAIDS

Outskirts of North Spain City Bombed By Insurgents' German Machines

Bilbao, May 11.—Eleven insurgent air raids within less than five hours blasted the outskirts of Bilbao today. The first armada of German-made bombers appeared over the city at 6.30 a.m. By 11 a.m. successive fleets of bombers were attacking the city and the threat was made in pamphlets dumped into the city by insurgent planes. Officials of the Basque autonomous government so far have ignored it.

INSURGENTS SLOWED UP
A heavy artillery bombardment, covering the operations of a defence army of about 65,000 Basques and their Asturian allies, was reported today to have slowed up the insurgent advance north of Amorebieta.

While woeful caravans of women and children continued to stream into the city, seeking evacuation, government reports said General Emilio

Every Riding in B.C. to Be Contested at General Election June 1; Three Parties Have Slates Nearly Full

Three parties, Liberals, Conservatives and C.C.F., have nominated in practically all ridings and two other parties, the Social Credit and B.C. Constructives, have candidates in approximately half the constituencies, it was revealed when nominations closed today for the B.C. general election on June 1.

There are forty-eight seats in the Legislature and approximately 180 candidates are in the field seeking the honors. There are no acclamations.

With a few nominations to come Liberals had named a full slate of 48, B.C. Constructive 11, the C.C.F. 44, Conservatives 41, Social Credit League 19, and 12 candidates ran under various designations.

With a few exceptions all the retiring members of the House are standing again. Of the thirty-three Liberals in the House at dissolution, only three are not running. They are: Dr. J. Allen Harris, who sat for South Okanagan, Dr. W. H. Sutherland who held Revelstoke, and Douglas McPherson, Grand Forks-Greenwood.

Former Attorney-General Sloan had already resigned when the House was dissolved, and there was a vacancy in Cariboo.

In the Opposition ranks all members are running again, with the exception of Ernest Babewell, who held Mackenzie for the B.C. Constructives.

Nominations today signal the opening of the final three weeks' drive to polling day, June 1. Millions of words, spoken and printed, will be showered upon the electors before that time.

Following is the unofficial list of nominations in all ridings, with a few last-minute entrants to be added: Legend—Lib., Liberal; Const., British Columbia Constructive; C.C.F., Co-operative Commonwealth Federation; Con., Conservative; Sc., British Columbia Social Credit League; Ind., Independent; Ind.-Lib., Independent Liberal; Lab., Labor; Soc., Socialist; Comm., Communist; * Member of last Legislature.

ABLE TO HOLD OUT

Basque leaders expressed confidence Bilbao would not capitulate—pointing to Madrid's resistance to six months of siege—even though the insurgents reach the very outskirts.

Mola's reinforced troops hammered at the Basques north of Amorebieta, which lies on the Durango road about twelve miles east and somewhat south of Bilbao. Other forces were seeking to penetrate the capital's semi-circular line of fortification in sectors to the north.

MADRID SHELLED

Madrid, May 11.—A night-long insurgent artillery bombardment left forty persons dead and injured today and new ruins in the heart of the capital.

Ontario Man Is Killed in Spain

St. Catharines, Ont., May 11.—Adrian Vanderbrugg, thirty-three, was killed fighting with the "Abraham Lincoln Battalion" against Fascist forces in Spain, according to word received here by his parents.

Vanderbrugg was a member of the St. Catharines rowing club, eight-oared crews in 1931 and 1932.

TRANSPORTATION DIFFICULTIES

Transportation problems still beset the metropolis today as the strike of 25,000 bus workers, tying up 5,000 of London's familiar red omnibuses, threatened to spread to subways and street cars. It was hoped this danger would not materialize until at least after tomorrow's brilliant spectacle.

Executive transport workers called a special meeting to determine whether to call out the trolley men to aid the striking bus drivers and conductors who are seeking a half-hour reduction in their working day, to 7½ hours. The tram and subway also will seek that reduction, should they go out.

PARK OPEN ALL NIGHT

Hyde Park will remain open all night. Wet or fine, it will be the common camping ground. Attendances were trickling today as the grass collecting hundreds of chairs, for 23,000 damage was done to park chairs at the Silver Jubilee. Many were being stored in the powder magazine which runs under the Serpentine. Soldiers guard them. At the park safe heavy chains secured chairs to tables.

George VI Given Addresses From All Empire Parts

spoke, "welcoming you home." He has since gone from us and it has pleased God to call me to be the head of this great family.

"Today I stand on the threshold of a new life. Heavy are the responsibilities that so suddenly and unexpectedly have come upon me—but it gives me courage to know that I can count on your unfailing help and affection.

"For my part, I shall do my utmost to carry on my father's work for the welfare of our great Empire. The Queen and I are not strangers to life overseas. We cherish the memory of the months we spent visiting the Dominions on the other side of the world. We shall indeed be happy if in the years to come we may have the good fortune to extend this personal knowledge.

FLEXIBLE BUT FIRM

"Today the world is harassed by perplexity and fear. In this family of nations, linked by ties alike flexible and firm, we have inherited from our fathers a great tradition of liberty and service. I am confident that whatever life may bring to us, we shall continue to work together to preserve this noble heritage so that we may hand it on unimpaired to those that come after."

His Majesty wore morning dress. The delegations were received in the state apartments.

While the ceremony was in progress, the Australian contingent, which yesterday took over the guard at Buckingham Palace, was relieved with full ceremonial by the Coldstream Guards.

Kidnapping Is Investigated

Sydney, N.S., May 11.—Police investigated today the story of Christine MacCreedy, twenty-eight, found unconscious on a Sydney street this morning.

Miss MacCreedy told police she was kidnapped last night by two men who forced her to enter a car, assaulted her and threw her out on the street.

DOUKHOBOR PAYS FINE

Nelson, B.C., May 11.—Fred Solovoff, a Doukhorbor, was sentenced to a fine of $20 and costs, with the alternative of one month in jail, when he appeared before Magistrate John Cartmel yesterday and pleaded guilty to a charge of assault.

ing Annie Khatkin, He paid the fine.

Even when shoulder firearms had been invented 160 years, writes an army ordnance expert, the clumsy arquebus was rated less deadly than the bow.

In addition to the excellent work of the Friendly Help Welfare Association, this effort will finance the Fred Landsberg Sunshine Camp for the 1937 season. The value of this project is well known to this community, and it is a splendid memorial to a great-hearted philanthropist. A gift of $9.00 will finance one person for two weeks at camp. Give, and you will enjoy your own holiday that much better.

An Important Statement—

"Why should I support a private family welfare society in these days when governments provide relief to those in need?"

This is a natural question for the citizens to ask.

There are several reasons why I think that a private family welfare agency is still necessary, but I shall mention only one. This is that the family welfare society does a positive service of prevention and rehabilitation which the overburdened public relief agency is usually not in a position to perform. The family welfare society sits down with the Jones and the Smiths and the Browns and helps them solve their own problems. Its job, indeed, is often said to be "to help people to help themselves."

By uniting broken families, by making contact with a long-lost son or other relative, by clearing up a health or housing problem, by obtaining the advice of a mental hygiene clinic, by finding a job, or in some other way it often succeeds in putting down-and-out people back on their own feet, so that they no longer need public relief. In other cases it prevents the breakdown of independence before any application for relief occurs. In still other cases it lessens the extent of dependency on public charity.

There is no doubt that the results of good work by a private family welfare society lessens public dependency and so decreases the relief burden which the general body of taxpayers must bear. In every major city of Canada and the United States the private welfare agency is considered by authorities, public as well as private officials, to be indispensable.

The moral of all this is that by supporting generously the Friendly Help Welfare Society in its appeal for funds we may unwittingly decrease the demands made upon us as taxpayers to meet public social service charges.

H. M. CASSIDY,
Director of Social Welfare.

During this week almost 100 citizens are giving valuable time to this method of community service. Meet them generously, as canvassing is not an easy task.

MANY ARE GIVEN
HONORS BY KING

Coronation List Is Cross-section of Life in Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Colonies; No Titles Come to Canada

London, May 11.—From the Queen to busmen, from London to lonely Tristan Da Cunha Island, the King today honored hundreds on the eve of his Coronation.

The Coronation honors list, one of the longest ever published, names distinguished and humble men and women for service to the Empire.

Again, among the Dominions, no titles go to Canada, South Africa or the Irish Free State. Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Canadian Minister of Justice, however, are made "Right Honorable" by appointment to the Privy Council.

The list includes thirteen new peerages, seven baronetcies and almost 100 knights. Thirteen are appointed to the Privy Council. There are columns of promotions and appointments in the various orders.

The Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, 1930-35, who holds an Irish peerage, is created an earl in the peerage of the United Kingdom.

VICTORIAN ORDER

The rare honor of the Royal Victorian Chain is conferred on the Queen and Queen Mother Mary. For the first time women are admitted to the Royal Victorian Order. ## LIBERAL PRINCIPLE

Ottawa, May 11.—Appointment to the British Privy Council of Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Dominion Minister of Justice, are the only awards in the King's Coronation honors list of particular interest to Canada.

This is in keeping with the policy of the Liberal government, which has been against the award of titles to Canadians. The granting of titles was stopped nearly twenty years ago and revived briefly while Rt. Hon. R. S. Bennett was Prime Minister.

The second report substantiate our attitude of that time.

"The whole incident revolves around technical circumstances, over which the exchange could not conceivably have had control. Exchange members and the public generally were misled by erroneous technical statements.

"Mr. Fraser's suggestions regarding stock-brokerage regulations, arising out of this investigation, will be given every consideration by the exchange. Most of the questions which he raises have been the subject of serious debate not only on our exchange but on other exchanges for a long time.

WILL CO-OPERATE

"We feel that Mr. Fraser, in his second report, has taken what he believes to be the fair and constructive position and we can assure the government that its officials will have ready co-operation from the exchange in discussing, as Mr. Fraser suggests, various possible changes in governmental or exchange laws which will be practicable in application and of protection to the investing public and assistance to the mining industry.

"I cannot too strongly emphasize the fact that the Vancouver Stock Exchange has nothing to hide. Its rules and regulations, after many reforms voluntarily imposed over a period of years, are amongst the most advanced on the continent as regards safeguarding of the public's interest. The exchange is the trading medium for a complex business.

Changes which, upon first view by an outside observer, may appear feasible and desirable, often prove, upon close study to involve considerations which make them either impractical or actually harmful in application.

TO ENCOURAGE INVESTMENT

"Premier Pattullo, in his statement of May 8, made reference to the Vancouver Stock Exchange in terms which are appreciated by our members. We note with interest his forecast of changes in the Security Act and its administration, and are pleased to observe his evident desire that such changes as may be made will be carefully planned so that they will protect and encourage the investment of capital and not drive it away. British Columbia stands greatly in need of money to develop its resources. Confidence must exist or our own people and those outside our province will not finance our development projects. There must be well-merited confidence in the Vancouver Stock Exchange and also in the sane and sound administration of the laws and the services affecting the mining industry and mine financing."

Says Exchange Not to Blame

Frank E. Hall, President of Vancouver Exchange, Comments on Hedley Findings

Vancouver, May 11.—After a brief perusal of the report and comments on Hedley Amalgamated, Frank E. Hall, president of the Vancouver Stock Exchange, made the following statement in behalf of his organization:

"It must be obvious to those who study the Fraser and Stewart findings and read the summary of the Richmond report that responsibility for the Hedley Amalgamated stock boom and crash does not rest upon the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

"We took issue with the first report by Mr. Fraser. We did not feel that it dealt with primary causes of the crash but unfairly and perhaps unintentionally suggested that stock exchange practices were mainly at fault. We consider that the contents of the second report substantiate our attitude of that time.

"The whole incident revolves around technical circumstances, over which the exchange could not conceivably have had control. Exchange members and the public generally were misled by erroneous technical statements.

Help for the Helpless—

What four parents say about the Friendly Help Welfare Assn.

These are the exact words:

"You must have been sent to save my life. You treated me with the greatest love and kindness and also with justice."

"You saved me from going nuts. I tell everybody about it."

"I came to you desperate. I thought I should have to put the children in a home. The government couldn't do anything for me, the city couldn't. I wasn't eligible for help anywhere. Then someone sent me to you. It wasn't so much the financial help you gave me, though I appreciated it, of course. It was something to do with morale. I knew if I did my part you would be behind me to encourage me. I felt that you depended on me just as I did on you. I am on my feet at last and the family has been kept together. Now I am ready to try to do something for someone else."

"You helped me to stay with my children."

Says Exchange
Not to Blame

Frank E. Hall, President of Vancouver Exchange, Comments on Hedley Findings

Vancouver, May 11.—After a brief perusal of the report and comments on Hedley Amalgamated, Frank E. Hall, president of the Vancouver Stock Exchange, made the following statement in behalf of his organization:

"It must be obvious to those who study the Fraser and Stewart findings and read the summary of the Richmond report that responsibility for the Hedley Amalgamated stock boom and crash does not rest upon the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

"We took issue with the first report by Mr. Fraser. We did not feel that it dealt with primary causes of the crash but unfairly and perhaps unintentionally suggested that stock exchange practices were mainly at fault. We consider that the contents of the second report substantiate our attitude of that time.

"The whole incident revolves around technical circumstances, over which the exchange could not conceivably have had control. Exchange members and the public generally were misled by erroneous technical statements.

"Mr. Fraser's suggestions regarding stock-brokerage regulations, arising out of this investigation, will be given every consideration by the exchange. Most of the questions which he raises have been the subject of serious debate not only on our exchange but on other exchanges for a long time.

WILL CO-OPERATE

"We feel that Mr. Fraser, in his second report, has taken what he believes to be the fair and constructive position and we can assure the government that its officials will have ready co-operation from the exchange in discussing, as Mr. Fraser suggests, various possible changes in governmental or exchange laws which will be practicable in application and of protection to the investing public and assistance to the mining industry.

"I cannot too strongly emphasize the fact that the Vancouver Stock Exchange has nothing to hide. Its rules and regulations, after many reforms voluntarily imposed over a period of years, are amongst the most advanced on the continent as regards safeguarding of the public's interest. The exchange is the trading medium for a complex business.

Changes which, upon first view by an outside observer, may appear feasible and desirable, often prove, upon close study to involve considerations which make them either impractical or actually harmful in application.

TO ENCOURAGE INVESTMENT

"Premier Pattullo, in his statement of May 8, made reference to the Vancouver Stock Exchange in terms which are appreciated by our members. We note with interest his forecast of changes in the Security Act and its administration, and are pleased to observe his evident desire that such changes as may be made will be carefully planned so that they will protect and encourage the investment of capital and not drive it away. British Columbia stands greatly in need of money to develop its resources. Confidence must exist or our own people and those outside our province will not finance our development projects. There must be well-merited confidence in the Vancouver Stock Exchange and also in the sane and sound administration of the laws and the services affecting the mining industry and mine financing."

Tomorrow in London

TOMORROW LONDON WILL WIT-ness a unique ceremony in the crowning of King George the Sixth and Queen Elizabeth. It will be an event of more than ordinary international significance, for the reason that science has brought the world so close together—the radio, airplane and rapid news service.

In 1911, King George the Fifth, the father of the present King, drove through the streets of London with all the panoply of pre-war days—when many thrones appeared to be quite secure. Tomorrow, his son, now King George the Sixth, will traverse the same route, the occupant of a throne secure. As he and his Queen go into Westminster Abbey to receive the plaudits of that part of the populace to be admitted into that historical edifice, they will realize that throughout what is known as the Britannic Commonwealth of Nations they enjoy a genuine affection.

Those people in Victoria who were privileged to see the "procession" on the occasion of King George the Fifth's Coronation will realize what changes have come about in the years between 1911 and 1937. Then in the early days of August, 1914, an Empire, representing one-quarter of the world's population, was challenged to make a great decision. It made it in the cause of international justice; it paid, and is paying, a great price.

Fortunately, there has come over public opinion in Great Britain a state of mind which has permeated the whole nation, the Dominions, and colonies, which constitute the Britannic Commonwealth of Nations, a new conception of life, a conception which accepts not only the basic fact that the British system of democracy, the British system of trying to live in peace, is the only system which gives a guarantee to the man and woman in the street, who are working, or trying to get work, for their living—a system which has fair play for its basis.

King George the Sixth will be a worthy successor to that fine gentleman who was King George the Fifth—whose main concern was the plain people and their welfare.

Gregor Mendel—Failure

JOHANN GREGOR MENDEL, mitted abbot of the Monastery of St. Thomas in Brunn, founder of the modern science of genetics, rated himself as a failure. The "breaks" were against him from early boyhood, nothing that he undertook seemed to prosper, and his greatest apparent success only defeated the end which he hoped it would promote.

This somewhat grey picture of one of the most significant lives in the history of science was presented by Prof. Samuel W. Fernberger in a discourse before the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia. The fact that the world now universally acclaims Mendel can not really redress the balance, suggested Prof. Fernberger: "Posthumous praise is poor consolation, indeed!"

Mendel's hard luck began with his father's bad judgment. The older Mendel, an orchardist, had bought himself land-poor, so that when young Johann was sent away to school he had so little to eat, much of the time, that he was often ill. In later adolescence, he tried to work his way through college by tutoring, and didn't have a great deal of success at that.

He finally gave up hopes for a secular career, and presented himself at the Abbey of St. Thomas as a candidate for admission to the order. Here he had his only two favorable "breaks": the abbot then ruling was interested in natural science, especially botany, and encouraged the young novice; and after some years a shortage of priests brought about his ordination before his whole course was completed.

But his ill-luck caught up with him at once. He was temperamentally unsuited for the pastoral work to which he was assigned. Visiting the sick and dying depressed him to the point of positive physical illness; he had to give it up. Then his abbot set him to work as a substitute teacher. This work agreed with him. He took the state examinations for certification as a full-fledged high school teacher—and failed ignominiously. His abbot saw to it that he got some university training. He tried again—and again failed. He gave up the effort, and for twenty years continued teaching with only the rank of substitute.

It was during these teaching years that Mendel conducted his numerous scientific activities, including the work on garden peas that now writes his name in the stars of science's sky. But even here misfortune continued to dog him. Nobody paid any attention to his results when they were published, and they remained buried for a generation before their rediscovery and proper appraisal.

The abbacy becoming vacant, Mendel became a candidate, thinking that in this position he would have more time for research. Instead, he had to become a hard-pressed business manager for the monastery property—with a bitter tax fight on his hands to boot.

When he lay dying, in 1884, he wrote his own obituary notice for the press. In it he mentioned that he had been a mitted abbot and that the Emperor had conferred a decoration upon him. But he said nothing whatever about having once planted peas in his garden, and the results upon which was based the Mendelian law of heredity.

Public Health By Execution

CHINA HAS FOLLOWED WEST-ern nations in embarking on public health crusades. But they are carried out in typical Oriental fashion. The unfit are simply rounded up and shot. Large numbers of dope addicts were dispatched by the official executioners at the time of the New Year's anti-opium clean-up. Those in charge of the campaign refuse to issue statistics on just how many were put out of the way at that time.

Now terror is stalking abroad in Kwangtung province. Since the entire leper colony of the Presbyterian Mission Colony was wiped out at Easter by an execution squad, lepers have been committing mass suicide. Medical missionaries have sought to prevent the slaughter. But Nanking officials of the National Health Administration state they have no "official" knowledge of the situation. The executioners continue on their rounds as the orders from "higher up" do not come to halt the killing.

Not only lepers, but the lame, the halt and the blind, fall before these public health execution squads. It is a case of no hope for the hopeless. But it is a depressing note on the philosophy of futility of the East. The Chinese Government has already seen the light of western democracy, but in killing the weak, the unfit and diseased, it is reverting to the barbaric practices of primitive races.

We may preach that the Chinese government has yet to appreciate that one of the purposes of modern civilized government is to interpose the humanities in what might otherwise be a ruthless "natural" struggle for survival. But, also, we must recall that only a few years ago we in the so-called Christian world were resorting to the death penalty in cases of even minor moral infractions. Even today, with our boasted Christian enlightenment, do we not condemn to premature death many of our physically afflicted because we have not yet worked out a way of making available equally to the poor and rich the benefits of the skill and techniques developed by medical science? With the knowledge and resources at our command to cope with ill health, just how much less callous are we in the matter of public health when we fail to make the utmost social use of them than the Chinese with their treatment by execution? The only thing is the Chinese get it over with more quickly.

The Price Doctors Pay

HEART DISEASE IS MUCH COM-moner among doctors than bankers or any other occupational group. The reason is to be found in the heavy strain under which the doctor or surgeon constantly labors. What is a crisis for the banker or the business man is more or less a routine for the doctor. The physician's and, especially, the surgeon's daily responsibilities are nearly as intense as those of the banker when there is a run on his bank.

This is the explanation by Dr. Harry L. Smith, Mayo Clinic, of the fact that physicians suffer so much more frequently from coronary sclerosis than do persons in other occupations. In fact, this type of heart disorder is sometimes called the "disease of doctors." Recently Dr. Smith made a comparative study of the incidence of coronary sclerosis among physicians, bankers, lawyers, clergymen, laborers and farmers who came to the Mayo Clinic. About 300 men in each of these occupations were examined and their average age was approximately the same.

Coronary sclerosis occurs among doctors twice as frequently as in any other occupation, his study showed. It occurs four times as often as it does among laborers and farmers and about twice as often among bankers, lawyers and clergymen as among laborers and farmers. Stress, strain and worry are called predisposing causes of this disease, which figures hardly at all among the manual laborers and is highest among those who do mental work.

In partial explanation of his findings, which are reported in The Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Smith declares:

"A physician's schooling is long and intensive compared with that of the average banker and business man. A doctor has used up a great deal of nervous energy by the time he has finished school. The nature of his work is much more strenuous, for oftentimes the responsibility of life itself is on his hands. A physician's routine work, which includes ordinary obstetric cases with complications, broken legs, severe cardiac diseases, scarlet fever and diphtheria among children and pneumonia among the aged, and the responsibility of the surgeons, which is probably greatest of all, is actually or nearly as intense as that of the banker when there is a run on his bank."

Prosperity Note

INCENDIARY BOMBS USED IN THE attack by Franco's aviators on the undefended civilians of Guernica, Durango and other Basque communities, "were marked with a German eagle and a 1936 mark of the Rheindorf factory."

The Rheindorf factory belongs to the Vereinigte Stahlwerke (German United Steel Works Corporation) which is controlled by Thyssen, Hitler's financial angel.

Thanks to the slaughter in Spain Vereinigte Stahlwerke is doing well. For the fiscal year 1936 its net income was 22,856,000 reichsmarks, as compared with 360,000 reichsmarks the previous year.

Notes

In the long run, the worst enemies of any man are those who cheer him when he is wrong.

A native of China greets another by shaking his own hand. It might be a valuable thing to keep in mind during our election campaign.

Women are ill one and a half times as often as men, according to a noted pathologist. Yet, life insurance statistics show the "weaker" sex lives slightly longer.

IN NORTHUMBERLAND.

NAMES

IF I WERE a systematic person I would keep a diary and in it I would put the names that appear on the road signs of Northumberland—the Edinburgh and Shilling, storied names like Tewkesbury and Bannockburn, but more especially humble names that no one but Englishmen has ever heard of.

What names they are, and what pictures they conjure up! Alas, I can only remember a few of them, but they are worth writing down here to show the rich stuff of the English countryside. Here are some of the more charming that I can recollect, scattered all about the kingdom: Shankend, the Wallops (north and south), the Slaughters (east and west), Halt-whistle, Superior Walton and Inferior Walton, Mouse Hole and Crack Hole.

YOKEL

COMING from a country of restless people, who are forever moving about and seeking new places, it is surprising to find how the people of the English countryside stick to their little strip of land, to their own high street and village green. Most of the folk in this Northumberland town haven't been to Edinburgh and few will know see London. You can count absolutely on their knowledge of local geography, and they give of it cheerfully, as if it were a real pleasure to direct the stranger. But question them about anything more than ten miles away and you take wild chances.

Yesterday we got off on a lonely road south of Edinburgh and stopped to ask a shepherd boy the way to Newcastle. He said it was straight on, about fifteen miles. We followed the road for thirty miles into the loneliest part of England we have seen so far, into the heart of the Cheviot Hills, where we traveled for an hour without seeing more than three farmhouses, tiny specks on this vast windy sweep of brown grass.

We began to think, then, that we might be on the wrong road and finally we ended up almost on the west coast of England, instead of the east coast. If it hadn't been for that name, Halt-whistle, on a railway station, we would have gone clear over to Carlisle. It seems that the shepherd boy had never been to Newcastle-on-Tyne. His Newcastle was Newcastle-on-Tyne, his Newcastle was Newcastle-on-Tyne, his Newcastle was Newcastle-on-Tyne.

ROMAN COUNTRY

WE GOT on to a main road at last and landed, hungry and weary, into the very heart of Roman England, beside Hadrian's Wall. And here you can hardly find a native who knows when the Romans were in Britain, though the English antiquarians have done marvelous work among the ruins and are still digging up statuary, coins, and fortresses.

The people here are more interested in football. In the garage at the end of the high street this morning, the mechanic said he supposed I would see the Coronation and admitted that it would be grand, the sight of a lifetime. But he seemed to think it was more important that I should see the international soccer match between England and Scotland in Glasgow next Wednesday. He was shocked when I had to admit that we had been in Edinburgh last Saturday and failed to go over to Glasgow to see some big game. Why, there were 150,000 people there, he said, and forty-two fainted. I said I had been busy looking over Edinburgh Castle. Ah, yes, said he, but this was one of the biggest matches of the season. He was pretty disgusted when I confessed that I would not turn north again to see the international match next Wednesday in Glasgow.

NEWS FROM HOME

IN EDINBURGH, by the way, I got a copy of this paper containing a letter from a gentleman who complained that I had stolen a story for a movie. It is no wonder that such ideas get about for, from what I can hear, the movie made in my name had nothing whatever to do with any story I ever wrote, but was a brain child of Hollywood, and of illegitimate origin. From what I can hear, it must have been pretty terrible and I am glad I didn't see it. It was a kind of dirty trick to play on the good people of Victoria—leaving them this horror to look at and running off to avoid the consequences.

They put us on daylight saving yesterday, so there are now nine hours between this tiny Northumberland village and Victoria. As I write this in my icy bedroom, looking out over the rolling green hills, and pray for the dinner gong to sound at 7.30 o'clock, it is, as I calculate the matter, just 10.30 o'clock in the morning in Victoria. The brokers will be slipping out of the offices now for the morning coffee necessary to sustain life until lunch at noon. The cabinet will be meeting across James Bay. The little girl from next door will be struggling with her arithmetic lesson. Her brother will be investigating a robin's nest in the oak woods. It is cold and wintry here, with an icy rain from the north. It will be warm and sunny there, and deep in April flowers. How lucky you are to be there—and envying me for being here.

Thank heaven, there goes the dinner gong, just as you are getting over a heavy breakfast.

FRENCH HAVE CAPTURED PARIS

By GEORGE ROSS

RUMORS that the French are now in possession of Paris are not exaggerated. It is too early for the tourists to step in and take over, and British weekenders barricade themselves only at the Ritz Bar and Bal Tabarin. Not that Paris is mindless visitors. Paris loves visitors and the bank-rolls they bring. But just now the city by the Seine is enjoying a brief respite, and Paris is for the Parisians.

Truth to tell, however, certain caravansaries and bistros plying to the Anglo-Saxons make a stab out of season for transients. Harry's Bar, for example, issues cards at street corners urging the stranger to merely tell the taxi driver, "Sank Roo Dee Roo." And both Johnny and Tommy's Bars are eager to arouse a nostalgia for home in lone-smoke tourists.

Saunter the Champs Elysees from the Arc de Triomphe to the Place de la Concorde and one is likely to run into Joe's California Inn and others consecrated to the Americans. But, alas, all their high stools are being occupied by Frenchmen.

FOREIGN CAN CAN CAN

THE GALLIC denizens are having a good time by themselves. Though the floorshow at the Dal Tabarin is a little less spectacular than those in America, natives consider it the seventh wonder of France and challenge anybody to show them a more indigenous Can-Can.

That, however, is but one of innumerable dens in Montmartre, in the Place Pigalle, on the Left Bank, along the Boulevard Montparnasse. Parisians arrange their night's gaiety chronologically, taking an initial Dubonnet at the street cafe, the Dome, proceeding to the Coupole for a dinner table d'hôte, thence to the Select for a fine.

After these preliminaries, the gadabout of Paris is ready to make the rounds among such haunts as the Boeuf Sur le Toit, Sheherazade, Maxim's, Baghdad and a host of clubs, many naughtier than would stand description in print.

New York Also Coronation Minded

NEW YORK

THE UNITED STATES has its Coronation problems, too. In this Republic the Monarchy seems to get even more attention than in the Empire. This perhaps explains the remark of George L. Cohen, the actor, leaving for Europe recently, said he wanted to get away from the New York Coronation fever.

The shipping companies report a sudden and quite large cancellation of American bookings for the Coronation. John Brennan, passenger manager of the United States Lines, says that "steamship men are generally agreed that the Coronation publicity has been badly handled." In this he echoes the opinion of most of the companies.

It seems the publicity emanating from London has made it appear that there won't be room to move in the imperial capital during the festivities. Of course, this sort of news was well meant as indicative of the bigness of the spectacle, but more and more Americans have got the idea they will be no better off than sardines in the tight little isle.

Other reasons are given for the cancellations. There is objection to the high price of seats in the Coronation stands, according to the shipping officials. And the London publicity has apparently given the impression that the situation will ultimately be comparable to the ticket "scalping" immediately before a heavyweight championship.

Another impression is that London hotels and places of entertainment are going in for special Coronation profiteering. A steamship official reports, for instance, that one London hotel is charging a week's costs even if a guest wishes to stay just one night.

There are also domestic reasons for the cancellations. The stock market uncertainty, strikes, the government's fiscal problems and the question of what Roosevelt will do next.

All in all, the result in last-minute cancellations has been: The Normandie and the Paris 250; the Europa 100; the Aquitania 100; the Berengaria 100; the Queen Mary 150; the Holland-American Line 100. Other ships leaving soon expect proportionate withdrawals.

KNEE PANTS

With respect to the question of Coronation uniforms there has been a much-publicized Congressional flutter concerning the officially prescribed knee pants which Ambassador James Gerard, President Roosevelt's personal representative, will affix to his otherwise formal evening attire. It seems that when Ambassador Dawes was at the Court of St. James he donned ordinary evening attire for state occasions and that some Congressmen think Mr. Gerard should not recede from this precedent even to the extent of curtailed pants. Mr. Gerard is viewed by some as making a concession to undemocratic procedure.

The situation prompted Westbrook Pegler, columnist, to attempt a reconciliation of the opposing views in the following manner: "... The affected scorn for black silk bloomers as worn at the British Court is only affectation. For certainly the American tail-coat is no less fussy and absurd, and yet there are social nights-out in Washington where a man might as well go naked as in mufti or honest overalls. And at the Vatican, Americans, in common with all others, must wear formal evening dress even in the morning to be received by the Pope, and hundreds do and think nothing of it beyond a little feeling of bashfulness in broad daylight."

"So let 'Jimmy' Gerard go in bloomers to the Coronation or in red tights or an old-time union suit—if that is what the custom of the country asks for. He cannot be more funny than row on row of common, God-fearing, busy-living us-folks trucking down the boiling planks of Atlantic City's boardwalk in July done up in flower-pot hats and swords and slippers curled up at the toes."

The clothes problem has now engulfed none other than General John J. Pershing, who on his departure for England was impelled to deny a story concerning the kind of uniform he was going to wear at the Coronation. "Pershing Departs, Bitter on Uniform," said The New York Times.

General Pershing, presumably bitterly, explained his uniform embodied no radical departure from American military custom. A reporter dutifully asked the question that was becoming national in scope:

"Will you wear knee pants?" "Knee pants with uniform? young man, you should go to a CCC camp and learn about uniforms," replied the General, more bitter than ever.

Schools Present Colorful Pageant

Packed House Greeted Production of "Romance of Empire" in Commemoration of Coronation and Victoria's Jubilee Anniversary

In commemoration of the Coronation of King George VI and the jubilee anniversary year of the City of Victoria, school children of the city yesterday evening presented their "Romance of the British Empire" to a full house at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

With 430 children of city schools taking part, the show was one of the largest of its kind ever undertaken here. The entire production depicted the growth of the British Empire from the time of ancient Britons to the present, and into it was worked some early Victoria scenes which created considerable local interest.

Costuming was excellently carried out, and all scenes were based upon historically correct facts. The costumes were designed by Miss Vivien Combe and, with the scenery, were made by the teachers.

The story of the production was written under the combined authorship of H. S. Hurn, W. H. Muncy and Miss Olive Heritage of the city teaching staff.

The production will be repeated this evening.

COLORFUL SCENE

One of the most picturesque scenes was that depicting the Elizabethan age presented by the Boys' and Girls' Central schools in which were introduced the historical and literary notables of the Elizabethan period.

Catherine Goodenough made a very impressive queen, and among the characters introduced were: King Philip II of Spain, portrayed by Robert Stewart; King Henry III of France (Sid Glover); Mary Queen of Scots (Mary Englehardt); William Shakespeare (Ronald Grant); Sir John Hawkins (Tom Rose); Sir Francis Drake (Billy Hawthorne) and Sir Walter Raleigh (Douglas Grant).

The grand finale was also an impressive sight and one in which the splendor and glamour of the costuming was much in evidence. In this scene various characters from earlier scenes were reintroduced and all branches of the British Empire were represented.

EARLY VICTORIA

The early Victoria scenes were fittingly portrayed by pupils of Sir James Douglas School, and the characters portrayed included: Sir James Douglas (A. B. Alexander), Roderick Finlayson (William Prior) and Chief Tzouhalem (L. Irish).

A touch of more modern times was lent by the scenes entitled "Delhi Durbar," by Oaklands School, and "Three Memories," by Sir James Douglas, in which were portrayed Queen Victoria, the Great War and the late King George V.

In the intermissions between the various scenes historical characters in costume were paraded on the stage, the roles being taken by primary school pupils.

TWELVE EPISODES

The twelve historical episodes and the schools presenting them were: "The Ancient Britons," by South Park School, in which was depicted early trading among Britons and Phoenicians; "A Tale of Sherwood," by North Ward School, telling the fantastic tale of one of Robin Hood's famous escapes from the hands of the sheriff of Nottingham; "The Great Charter," by Margaret Jenkins school, depicting the signing of Magna Carta by King John; "The Elizabethan Age," by the Central Schools; "A King's Farewell," by Victoria West School, relating the story of King Charles I. separation from his family as he faced the guillotine; "Ordre Du Bon Temps," by Quadra School, a scene of early Acadia; "Rescue," by George Jay School, depicting the meeting in Africa between Livingstone and Stanley and the former's refusal to accompany his rescuer back to the Home-land; "A Glimpse of Australia," by Burnside School, illustrating typical family life among the early mining settlements; "Early Days in Victoria," by Sir James Douglas School; "A Fantasy," by Victoria West School, in which were depicted episodes in the development of candle light, tolerance and determination; "Delhi Durbar," by Oaklands School, a scene from the Hanoverian period; "Three Memories," by Sir James Douglas, and the grand finale.

Music for the production was provided by the Victoria High School orchestra, under the direction of Al. Prescott, and the personnel of the capable managing committee was H. S. Hurn, director; W. H. Muncy, Miss O. Heritage, A. L. Bagshaw, Boyd McGill, Miss Vivien Combe and S. F. Bulley.

John Adams and Miss Daisy Smith were the narrators and gave a running commentary on the various scenes.

SEEK REDRESS FROM KAPOOR

Definite Indications Compensation to Be Sought By City on Timber Deal

Definite indications were given by the City Council yesterday that compensation will be sought from the Kapoor Lumber Company for violation of the lease clauses under which the city decided to that company timber rights on the Goldstream watershed.

Reports on activities of the company, presented to city legal counsel, brought forth a definite opinion from them to the effect the lease had been violated.

Alderman James Adam asked if the city had not employed a special man to make sure the terms of the agreement were being observed.

G. M. Irwin, city engineer and water commissioner, stated W. Shorrock had acted in that capacity, but some time ago had been removed to the jurisdiction of another department and had not continued his reports to him.

IRREPARABLE DAMAGE

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar told the council he had been informed irreparable damage had been done at Jack Lake.

It had been logged entirely, Alderman W. Lloyd Morgan added. He had been on a trip to the lake last Saturday, he said.

"What's the remedy?" Alderman W. T. Straith asked.

"We should get compensation," the mayor replied.

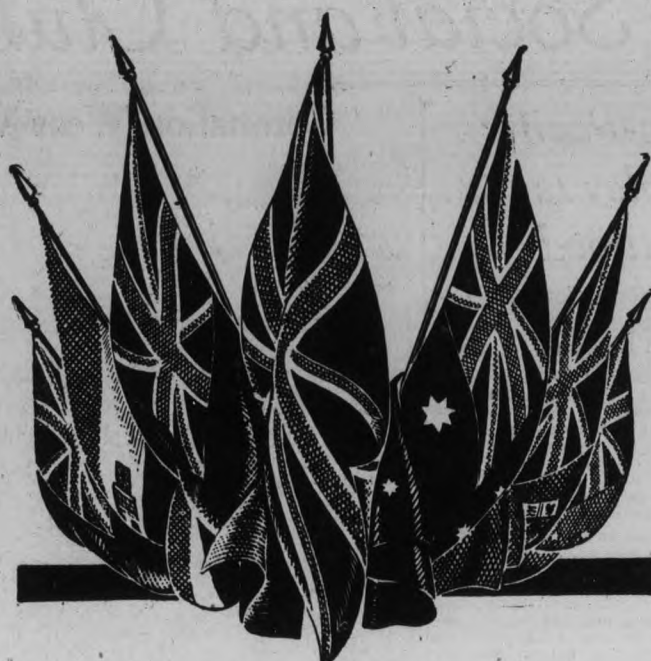

The question was referred to the water board for further study and a report. Mayor McGavin, water board chairman, expressed the hope as many aldermen as possible would attend his committee's meeting when it dealt with the matter.

Irish Banner In London Lowered

London, May 11.—Coronation sight-seers in Piccadilly Circus yesterday saw hanging from the office of the Irish Free State High Commissioner a huge banner bearing the following inscription:

"Remember, the British murdered James Connolly on May 12, 1916."

Angry cries greeted the banner, which was soon hauled down. Connolly was an Irish labor leader who served as commander of the Irish Republican forces in Dublin during the Easter rising of 1916. He was executed after a court-martial.

Pan-Pacific Parley Is Outlined

Women's Council Urged To Send Delegate

An appeal to the women's organizations of the city to send a strong representation to the Pan-Pacific Conference of Women to be held in Vancouver in July was made before the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon by Dr. Randall Colyer, of the Women's Union of Service, of Sydney, Australia.

The speaker has been spending several months here, and will be a delegate to the conference. She attended the last conference held in Honolulu in 1935, and yesterday told her audience something of the significance of these great gatherings of representative women from the countries bordering the Pacific.

FOSTER'S UNDERSTANDING
The aim is to foster better understanding of the health, social and economic problems of the different countries in the Pacific area; the effect of this free discussion of mutual difficulties on the friendly relationships between the women and the citizens as a whole, and the ultimate result of such international meetings in building up a peace-mentality.

Dr. Randall-Colyer touched upon the brilliant personalities she had met at the last conference with special reference to the women of the Orient. Dr. Ting, a Chinese medical director of the women's hospital at Tientsin, had been one of the most stimulating speakers, and had expressed unfeigned pleasure at being able to attend a conference of such broad and impartial sympathies that the Chinese women delegates were able to express themselves naturally, unafraid, instead of as heretofore giving a "Yes-Yes" and a smile to everything the foreigner said.

BRIDGE TO HELP
To raise funds for the purpose of contributing financial support to the conference, the Local Council on Friday, June 4, will hold a bridge tea at the Y.W.C.A. The executive and finance committee were authorized to carry on with the plans for this. The suggestion was made that each affiliated organization would try to arrange a table for bridge and supply something for the tea.

The Women's Auxiliary of the C.C.F.'s application for affiliation was received and accepted.

The meeting passed resolutions of congratulation to Miss Muriel Thompson on having won the award for the best play by a local author in the recent Drama Festival, and to Mrs. Ebbes-Canavan, for her Coronation poem.

WOMEN CANDIDATES
The meeting recorded its pleasure at the entry of women into the political field in the forthcoming election, and the candidates, irrespective of their party affiliations, were warmly congratulated upon their courage in coming out as standard-bearers.

Warm commendation was expressed of the pamphlet recently issued by the Department of Education to the schools urging the conservation of the wild flowers and plants of the province. The attractive little brochure was shown to the gathering by Mrs. Hugh Mackenzie, head of the council's committee.

A moving appeal for support of the effort being made by the unemployed to obtain increased relief allowances was made by Mrs. Griffiths, representing the wives of the unemployed in Victoria. She declared that, after years of struggling to maintain a family on the mere pittance allowed under the relief scale, many of the women were at the breaking point, and could not go on. Mrs. J. W. Gibson, who was in the chair in the unavoidable absence of Dr. Olga Jardine, the president, referred the matter to the executive for its consideration.

Coronation Wear Varies

The most popular indoor sport in England these days is deciding on the costume worn to the Coronation. Commoners enjoy the sport most, for they have all the leeway they want and manufacturers are catering to the most patriotic tastes in the way of haversacks and market bags (see those at left) in which to take provisions for the day-long outing on London's curbs. Peeresses, however, will have to be content to wear the gorgeous robes at right, dictated by tradition. Only the length of trains, which indicate rank, will vary.

V.O.N. Film Will Show Work

The rich drama and human interest inherent in the work of the Victorian Order of Nurses has been transferred to the screen in a newly-completed fact-film which, through the co-operation of scores of theatre managers in the Dominion, will bring to the attention of thousands of theatregoers, the varied activities in all parts of Canada of the 300 nurses who, in blue uniforms and carrying the celebrated "little black bag," start out every morning on their errands of mercy.

Undaunted by distance or weather conditions and serving the sick in a lonely fisherman's shack, north-woods cabin and isolated prairie homestead, as well as in the teeming cities, the members of the V.O.N. give their nursing care to men, women and children, irrespective of race, creed, color or financial status, the film reveals.

Aptly titled "The Little Black Bag," this motion picture was produced by Associated Screen Studios and presents a comprehensive record of the work which is being done from coast to coast by the order. Recounted in the narrative is how Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee year saw the founding of the organization by Lady Aberdeen and the interest which was taken in the work by Florence Nightingale. Sequences reveal how the skilled hands of the V.O.N. nurses ease pain, how pre-natal care is given to expectant mothers, how better health is insured by hygienic teaching.

At medical centres and child clinics, they aid the work of the doctors, hold health classes and teach nutrition work and school nursing. In more remote areas, the call is answered however hard of access is the home. Wherever possible in these desolate parts, the journey is made by car, the film shows, but there are also many instances when the nurse must row herself across stormy rivers or tramp miles through the bush to reach her destination. Neither storm or night daunts the spirit of the nurse with "the little black bag," the film proves.

PARFITT-SMITH

At a very quiet ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church, Seattle, yesterday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Matthews united in marriage Miss Winifred K. Smith of Libertyville, Ill., to Gilbert Parfitt of Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Parfitt expect to return to Victoria shortly.

GILLANDERS-LOUGHEED

Vancouver, May 11.—With impressive simplicity the wedding was solemnized at high noon Saturday at which Mary Ethel, youngest daughter of Mrs. Ruth Lougheed, 5570 Chancellor Boulevard, University Hill, and the late Lindsay Lougheed of New Westminster, became the bride of Dr. Earle B. Gillanders, son of Mrs. and Mrs. A. H. Gillanders of Chilliwack.

Rev. G. B. Ridland at his church, Sapperton, United, officiated at the marriage service of his sister-in-law. Only family members were present, and there were no attendants. Later, an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

The bride wore a distinctive three-piece Creed suit of poudre blue kasha cloth, the white-collared frock and three-quarter length topcoat depending on beauty of line for their chic. With this, a spray of gardenias was a lovely floral accent, while hat and all accessories were navy blue.

Lovely arrangements of pink and white snapdragons, lady slippers and stocks were arranged for the reception, at which sisters-in-law of the bride, Mrs. D. H. Lougheed and Mrs. M. S. Lougheed, presided at the urns. Mrs. Lougheed, wearing a black ensemble lightened by a floral spray, assisted by the groom's parents, received with the principals.

Juliana Has Gorgeous Gown

London, May 11.—Fashion experts looked today to the Coronation to complete the transformation of Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands into one of Europe's most snappily dressed royal personages.

The once plump princess, who wore cotton stockings before she married Prince Bernard, and tossed away eighteen pounds of weight and her Dutch trousseau for a Paris wardrobe during her honeymoon, arrived in London Sunday night with the smartest clothes she ever has owned.

In Westminster Abbey on Wednesday she will wear a gorgeous gown of supple parchment brocade, embroidered with flowers in two shades of gold. Cut on slender lines, it is finished off with a shining train.

Princess Juliana, however, is only one of the visiting princesses who have ordered gorgeous gowns for the occasion.

Princess Chichibu, wife of the brother of the Emperor of Japan, will wear a gown of gold lame, hand-embroidered, with diamante and pearls, in a design of Japanese chrysanthemums. She will wear it with a long train of the same material and a tiara and necklace of diamonds.

The Sultana of Johore expects to attend in a princess gown of gold cloque lame with a train of the same shining stuff, lined with pale gold velvet and bordered with sables. The gown will make a gleaming background for the tiara and necklace of sapphires and diamonds which are among the most famous of the Sultana's jewels.

Thousands—by modest estimate at least 10,000—dresses have gone home from London's best dressmakers in the last few days. Moi-neux's list reads like a description out of Arabian Nights: Lady Diana Ruff Cooper, dress of gold embroidered lame; Lady Howard de Walden, silver lame embroidered court dress with silver train; Lady Maud Carnegie, pink and silver brocade dress with train lined with pink chiffon.

Hartnell's have worked days and nights, Revilles used gorgeous materials that have been cherished as masterpieces. Handley and Seymour had difficulty in finding sufficient expert embroideresses.

Rockland Park W.C.T.U.—An inspiring address was given on "Alcohol" by Dr. J. E. Rowell, at the parlor meeting of the Rockland Park W.C.T.U. held at the home of Mrs. J. P. Hicks, 617 Drake Street. Much interest was manifested by the capacity attendance. Mrs. G. A. Hebdon was the soloist, and beautifully rendered "My Grace Is Sufficient for You." Rev. J. P. Hicks moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker and artist. Mrs. Twamie conducted the devotional and Mrs. Hicks announced the call of the fifty-fourth convention to be held in Vancouver from September 14 to 16. Mrs. Fred Eilers kindly invited the members to meet at her home in June. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. English and Mrs. J. A. Christensen. Mrs. John Hall presided.

Tells of "Northern Cross" Mission

At a joint gathering of St. John's A.Y.P.A. and Columbia W.A. held in St. John's Schoolroom on Monday evening, Rev. Edward Slater of the "Northern Cross Mission" gave an illustrated address on the work of this mission.

"The Northern Cross," a boat forty-seven feet long and with a twelve foot beam, plies between Metlakatla and Alice Arm, visiting the various villages and settlements between these points. Mr. Slater paid tribute to Canon Rushbrook, who formed the present mission as it is today. The Church of England is practically the only denomination with churches in this section, and the missionaries from the "Northern Cross" hold services and church school regularly on their visits. At many of the villages there are nice church buildings, the one at Metlakatla being specially fine, with a large and earnest congregation. All along the Skeena River, where the "Northern Cross" goes, the chief industry is salmon canning, and Mr. Slater described the speed at which this work is done.

Pictures of lighthouses visited were also shown, including Green Island Lighthouse, the most northerly Canadian lighthouse. All up and down the coast the people are very anxious to have reading matter, and the "Northern Cross Mission" endeavor to supply all with good literature. Mrs. Delap, wife of the captain, does much visiting and work amongst the women and children.

Some very beautiful slides were shown of Alice Arm on Observatory Inlet, and of Hidden Inlet where there is a large salmon cannery. The chair was taken by Rev. G. R. v. Boister and Miss Sill, president of the W.A., thanked Mr. Slater for his interesting lecture.

Queen of Peace Club—The Young People's Club of Queen of Peace Parish, Esquimalt, is arranging a dance to be held on May 17. Len Acre's orchestra will supply the music, and invitations can be obtained from the secretary, E7566, or members of the club.

Conservative Women — The Women's Conservative Association will hold their monthly business meeting on Thursday at 8 o'clock in the headquarters, Campbell Building.

St. Joseph's Junior W.A.—Miss Margaret Vantage was elected president of the Junior Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital by acclamation, at the monthly meeting held last night in the Nurses' Home. Miss Nan Eve was unanimously returned as treasurer, and other officers will be elected at the annual meeting to be held on June 14, following a supper to be given the members by the Sisters of the hospital. Due to conflicting dates, the fashion show has been canceled. Tentative plans for activities to be held in June were made. Following the meeting, refreshments were served, and the members were taken to the operating room on an inspection tour.

Navy League Chapter — At the monthly meeting of the Navy League Chapter I.O.D.E. held in the headquarters last night with the regent, Mrs. T. A. Johnston in the chair, Mrs. J. Gordon Smith gave an interesting talk on the constitution of the order describing the various points. Donations were voted to the Sea Cadets' summer camp, the Mary Croft memorial shed in the Squadron, and to the Columbia Coast Mission ship, also $50 to secondary education. Mrs. R. Shanks invited the members to hold their annual garden party and tea in aid of the funds at her home, 1041 Holmes Street, on Wednesday afternoon, June 30. An appeal was made to chapter members for clothing for a needy family in which the chapter is interested. Parcels may be left with Mr. Shanks, 923 Fort Street.

CHARLES NORTON, California mining promoter.

Yesterday, Joan is invited to Sybil's tea—a day, she would recall, that marked the beginning of all her unhappiness.

"Not at all. We're going to be friends, I know. And now—" She finished her chocolate and rose. "I really must run along. I promised to see Uncle John. . . Good-bye, Bob. Good luck on your trip. Good-bye, Joan—until Wednesday."

As they watched her drive off, Joan said to Bob:
"You know I lied about my weekend on Long Island?"
"I thought so. Why?"
"I don't know. For some reason, I'm just a little afraid of Sybil. I wasn't quite sure why she asked me. It seemed as if Mr. Hendry might have suggested it."

"Maybe he did," Bob agreed. "But Sybil was sincere enough. I understand how you feel, though. I've always been a little afraid of her myself. She's so coldly correct. . . . However, she has been a very good friend to me, whether her social suggestion or not. Whatever social success I've had here in Green Hills, I owe to her. She launched me, so to speak. It's helped me to many a good contract in business, too. She's really a fine girl, Joan. I know you'll like her when you know her better."

"Of course."

Nevertheless, Joan felt that she could never feel a genuine friendship for Sybil Hendry. She felt strangely apprehensive, too, about the tea on Wednesday, although she did not know why. Neither did she know that she was going to look back on that afternoon forever and realize that Sybil's tea marked the beginning of all her unhappiness.

Joan had planned to leave the office early on Wednesday. In order not to be late for Sybil's tea. But at the last minute, a sudden change in Mr. Hendry's plans detained her. She regretted not having time to run home and change, because she needed the composure that fresh clothes might have lent.

Sybil would be perfect and her friends would be perfect, and they would be quick to note any imperfections in her. Their attitude, she felt sure, would be patronizing. Socially secure in their own superiority, they were bending down to her, a stenographer, and their eyes and ears would be critical.

She remembered what Bob had said about Sybil. "Whatever social success I've had, I owe it to her. . . . It had helped him in his business, too. That would be her job, from now on. She must be able to do as much for him as Sybil Hendry had. Because of this, so much depended upon today. Upon her first meeting with these women who would be her neighbors.

Some of them he had met at the Spring Frolic. Because of their friendship for Bob, they had accepted her wholeheartedly. But today she would be alone. And she was not sure that Sybil's friends would be the same warm-hearted matrons whom Bob had presented. Today she would meet the smart young women, the well-poised, brilliant young sophisticates.

She was afraid of people like that. She lacked the self-confidence to meet them successfully. Parties still held a certain terror for her, because she was never sure when she might meet another woman from San Francisco—someone who remembered. A girl does not gather social assurance during a lifetime of hiding from society.

Today she must not be afraid.

She took one last personal inventory. The evening before she had had a shampoo and manicure. Her shoes were new, so were her stockings. She was glad it had continued cold; she would not need gloves.

Her dress, which she had hoped to change, would do. It was a plain black silk. Ideal for the office, but glorified for the occasion by a crisp new collar and a pair of good clips. Her hat was new and smart. Her plain black coat she had worn all through the winter, but it was made of good material even though it lacked an abundance of fur, and today it had been brushed within an inch of its life.

As far as grooming went, she felt confident. There was no carelessness to warrant criticism.

Her train arrived in Green Hills at 5.30. Sybil had suggested 5 o'clock, so she was not very late. She started to walk from the station, then suddenly catering to Sybil's sophistication, she decided on a taxi.

Her decision proved a wise one, because Sybil herself was welcoming guests at the door when she drew up. "Joan, my dear!" she greeted enthusiastically. "It's so nice to see you. Do run upstairs, will you? My maid will take your wraps. I shall be waiting here for you. . . . Jennings is mixing cocktails, and I must watch the door. . . . Oh, Marjorie Gloria! I'm so glad you both could come. . . ."

Joan's feet sank into the deep pile of the carpeting as she walked up the stairs. At the landing, a pert little maid met her and ushered her into a boudoir at the left—a veritable stage setting of rose and silver. This must be Sybil's room, she thought, and she caught her breath at the sheer luxury of it. In her simple black office dress, she felt a fitting companion to the maid, and her hands trembled as she reached into her bag for a handkerchief.

Two other young women were freshening their make-up at a vanity table, and they graciously made a place for her, and included her in their irrelevant chatter about the weather. Eventually she went downstairs with them. Sybil met them. She took Joan's arm and drew her forward.

"This is Bob's fiancée, Joan Barrett," she introduced. "Joan, let me present to you the Havens and Lois Stevens. . . . though you've probably introduced yourselves upstairs. . . . Come, Joan, my dear, the others are all so eager to know you, too."

She speaks, Joan thought, like a person in a play, so charmingly precise, as if she had rehearsed every word carefully. . . . but her eyes remained cold and remote, as if she weren't there at all.

Sybil led her into the blue and ivory living-room, and Joan felt a dozen pairs of eyes focused upon her, and ten times a dozen pairs reflected from as many mirrors. Mechanically she acknowledged Sybil's introductions, praying that she would not be forced to shake hands and betray, by the icy moisture of her own, the inner discomfort which she felt.

These women were to be her friends and neighbors, yet of all the eyes and reflections of eyes which burned into her, there was no pair which sparkled warmth and friendship. They were all Sybil's eyes, a dozen times over, cold and remote and unfriendly, though the lips that matched them smiled and murmured charming phrases. The friendly, fleshy matrons whom Bob had presented were not to be found in this group.

Here were the critics, waiting to tear her apart. Here were the social dictators, soothing her with subtle smiles and velvet speeches as their eyes watched with eager impatience for one slight excuse to cast her from their circle.

Sybil led her to the divan, where she might enjoy the centre of the stage. "We're all so very, very fond of Bob," she explained engagingly, "that we feel we must know you thoroughly."

Joan knew that the words Sybil was thinking were: "that we want to know if you are good enough for him."

"I hope you won't find us too dull, Joan," Sybil chattered on. "Compared with you, we lead such empty lives." Then, in explanation to the others: "Joan, you know, is Uncle John's secretary. He tells me that he couldn't do a thing without her!"

If the words were intended for flattery, the intention was lost. Rather, Sybil had called attention to the difference in their positions, and beneath the sugar coating of her words there was a vague sting.

Others, quick to seize an opportunity, followed up her words in the subsequent small talk. Did it not require years of training for such a position? Or had she started to work when she was very young? Not really? Seventeen? Think of it! Didn't get to college, then? How unfortunate! A good finishing school, however. . . . not even finishing school! Oh, dear Well, it was just too, too wonderful what a young girl could do for herself these days. . . . of course, if one was that type.

Jennings entered quietly, carrying a tray of cocktails. He walked straight toward Joan, presenting another problem. If she refused, she would be a rude and a bore, a handicap to a man whose business success depended upon his wife's diplomacy in social contacts. If she drank but one, and let its warm stimulation free her of the overpowering tenseness which she felt, her laugh might become one note too shrill and the critics would whisper: "What can you expect from a common stenographer?"

IMMIGRATION BIG PROBLEM

J. H. Hall, New Zealand Editor, Says Population Is Best Defence For Country

"We want population especially for defence. I quite agree with Premier Savage of New Zealand that population is the best defence a country can have," said J. H. Hall, editor of The Dominion of Wellington, New Zealand, who is in Victoria today. He arrived Saturday evening by the Aorangi on his first visit to Canada.

"I feel convinced immigration is the Empire's big problem," Mr. Hall said. "After the defence problem that is the problem that will not doubt be discussed at the forthcoming Imperial Conference in London."

"In our own country we have railways, roads and bridges that warrant a population of 5,000,000. Our present investment in public works would easily serve such a population. And yet we have, counting our island possessions, only 1,600,000."

SMALL FARMERS

The problem of immigration and greater population is intimately bound up with the problem of trade and commerce and export business, Mr. Hall believes. By and large, Mr. Hall said, New Zealanders form a nation of small farmers, the principal exports being butter, cheese, mutton and lamb.

"But what is the use of bringing in immigrants if we can't export the goods they will produce?" he asked. "There is no use bringing in people to produce meat and butter if we can't sell those things in the United Kingdom."

Immigrants must be "the right type and Great Britain is hesitant to lose the right type," Mr. Hall commented. "But if Great Britain would send to the Dominions 2,000,000 able-bodied young people, not her 2,000,000 unemployed, and back the movement financially, Great Britain and the Dominions concerned would be much better off. Immigration on a big scale and backed financially by the governments. You can't expect a man to come to a new country and establish himself."

A GOOD START

Speaking for his own country, Mr. Hall said 500,000 or 1,000,000 new residents would be a good start. "We would like to get them from the British Isles, the Scandinavian countries and some from Germany, although I don't think we are too partial to Germans at the moment."

Australia, he said, was taking some southern Europeans, particularly Italians, who are establishing themselves on the sugar plantations of Queensland. Few Australians will go into that state but the climate there was similar to Italy.

The Labor Government in New Zealand, under Premier Michael Savage, was a new departure for the country as for years there had been alternate Liberal and Conservative governments.

"The government has been most venturesome," Mr. Hall said. "It is now bringing in universal suffrage. It will be pretty costly, but everyone, it is planned, no matter how rich or poor, will receive a pension at a certain age. A forty-hour week for industry has also been introduced."

Mr. Hall will spend a few weeks in Canada and hopes to meet in Ottawa Brigadier-General M. L. Hornby, who is keenly interested in Empire immigration. Then he will sail on his first trip to England, which he calls "home," although he was born in New Zealand.

No Extra Relief For Taxpayers

Relief workers who are property owners will receive no special consideration, the Equilmatt Council decided last night after a half-hour debate in camera on a petition signed by eleven tax-paying unemployed men.

The petition claimed that the present relief scale was so low that recipients were unable to pay their taxes, and asked that property owners on the relief rolls be given extra work to be credited to unpaid taxes.

The council decided against any assistance of this sort for financial reasons.

R. H. Fooley, K.C., who spoke in support of the candidate, said the present government had stumbled into costly experiments such as the Fraser River bridge and health insurance on the random promises of individuals.

T. C. Oldershaw of East Sooke urged support for the progressive policies of the Conservative Party. R. S. Johnson was chairman.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today

MAY 11, 1913

(From The Times Files)

The Sooke Lake expropriations have been practically completed by the action of the City Council last evening in passing through the arrangements made as a result of the compromise arrived at earlier in the week, by which thirty-two claims were settled on the 77½ basis and four on the 80 per cent basis. Other properties adjacent to the lake will be settled on the same basis.

A large crowd followed the contestants in the final tie for the Ladies' Pacific Northwest Championship yesterday morning. In which Miss V. Pooley was defeated by Mrs. Ricardo five up and four to play in as good and as sporting a contest as one could wish to see.

There were a number of Victoria visitors on the initial trip of the Princess Patricia the new C.P.R. steamer which left here for Nanaimo this morning to make the first run across the Gulf of Georgia inaugurating the double daily service between the black diamond city and Vancouver.

The city engineer, Angus Smith, after just two years in office in this city will be recommended for the position of city engineer of North Vancouver and will probably be appointed in succession to Mr. Haines when the City Council of the ambitious city meets on Monday night.

A conference between attorney-general Bower and R. H. Spiering, general manager, and F. R. Glover, executive assistant of B.C.E.R., was held yesterday when certain amendments to the street car regulations were introduced for consideration.

SCOUT NOTES

Duty Patrol Leader Cyril Pridham opened the weekly troop meeting of the St. Mary's troop. The troop marched to the Oak Bay High School grounds and rehearsed for the celebration on the afternoon of Coronation Day. Returning to the hall, a game was played, followed by a short instruction period. Notice was given with regard to the various Coronation events. All scouts are reminded to turn out at the district headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, at 9.45 o'clock Wednesday morning, or at the Crystal Garden before 10.30 o'clock.

The following scouts received proficiency badges last week: Larry Prowd, Bob Doe, Pierre Berton, Jack Gibbs and Dave Gornall. The following scouts received their junior St. John Ambulance certificates: Clark, Clayards, Gibbs, D. Gornall and Holden, and Scouts Robinson, Fred and F. Gornall, their senior certificates.

On Saturday evening, May 1, a joint patrol meeting of the Gull and Crow units of the troop was held, to which was invited parents and friends. The programme opened with a very enjoyable game in which everyone participated. This was followed by talks on hobbies by Scouts Bob Doe speaking on sea shells and Herbert Marston on stamp collecting. An interesting debate, entitled "Fire vs. Water," followed. Pierre Berton and Tom Price, representing the Gulls, upheld water, and Tom Clark and Bob Doe upheld the former. The result was a draw. A talk on the hobby of model airplane building, was given by Walter Wickson. Refreshments were served.

The First Tillicum Scout troop held its weekly meeting last Tuesday in St. Martin's Hall. The meeting opened with a flag break, followed by an instruction period. For the second consecutive month, Douglas Knight won the trophy for the best all-round scout. Plans were discussed for Coronation Day.

Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson was present at the North Quadra troop's meeting last Friday night and gave the scouts their second instruction in

This British Empire

At this time, when all eyes are turned on Britain's capital and all ears attuned to the stately ritual of the crowning of our King and Queen, we, as a unit of the British Commonwealth of Nations are conscious of a great surge of pride in the solidarity and integrity of this, our Empire, and in its enormous prestige as an arbiter in human affairs.

Today we offer to the world at large a striking object-lesson in what can be accomplished by singleness of purpose and undivided loyalty. Today, Great Britain and her sister peoples enjoy a bond of union and a measure of prosperity which have placed them in the very forefront of the new economy and made them a world within a world, united by common interest and a common viewpoint.

In no part of the Empire has this condition been more apparent than in British Columbia. No single factor has done more for our complete industrial rehabilitation than the loyalty of the units of the Commonwealth to each other.

Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, all have thrown their markets open to the products of our forests, fields and factories, of our mines and fisheries, so that today we find ourselves in an industrial position very closely approaching that of the greatest years in our history.

Since 1933, production from our basic industries has shown a steady acceleration. Employment has kept pace, and the improvement has been passed on to the people, whose purchasing power shows the greatest increase in the whole of Canada.

HERE ARE THE FIGURES:

	1933	1934	1935	1936
Logging .....	$39,000,000	$45,500,000	$57,000,000	$72,010,000
Mining .....	30,600,000	42,000,000	49,000,000	54,082,000
Agriculture .....	36,300,000	40,000,000	42,000,000	47,350,000
Fishing .....	11,000,000	15,000,000	16,205,000	16,250,000

In this rehabilitation, the sound financial ethics inherent to the British people have played their important part, in encouraging capital and private enterprise to aid in the development of this great province, and to bring it to its present status as Britain's bulwark on the Pacific and the gateway to half the trade of Asia.

Coldwell At C.C.F. Campaign Opening

National Vice-president Sees Machines Organized For Good of All; Four Candidates For Victoria Speak

"The intelligence which enabled us to make the machines can enable us to organize the machines for the good of society," declared M. J. Coldwell, M.P. for Rosetown-Biggar, Saskatchewan, and national vice-president of the C.C.F., in opening the C.C.F. campaign in Victoria at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening.

On the platform with him were the four C.C.F. candidates for Victoria—Mrs. K. Anderson Bell, Nigel Morgan, William Caird and James J. Walker—as well as Don Smith, C.C.F. candidate for Esquimalt. Joe Round was in the chair.

"Women are biologically builders, women are synthetic, psychologists tell us, men analytic," Mrs. Bell said, and declared that she felt women would appreciate the C.C.F. platform as it was constructive.

She asked them only to study their programme. "To me," she said, "the appeal of the C.C.F. is that it is an organization of progressives working for a planned economy."

Nigel Morgan saw the C.C.F. programme as one not of confiscation but of restoration. He outlined the four main problems facing the electorate of British Columbia as follows:

1.—Unemployment. He saw the need of co-operatives to ameliorate this condition, and pointed to the example of the fishermen's co-operatives in British Columbia, which had done away with the middlemen.

2.—Marketing Act. The C.C.F. was in favor of a marketing act, Mr. Morgan said, but not the present marketing act, which added two more to the string of parasites between the producer and the consumer.

3.—Health Insurance. The bulk of workers were opposed to the government scheme, because the burden fell on those who could not pay. He was for a scheme which included every citizen. "However, I personally will ballot for the scheme," Mr. Morgan said, "because I feel it is something to get it on the books."

4.—Collective bargaining. Every worker had the right to organize into unions of his own choosing and to bargain collectively with employers, Mr. Morgan said. The local I.L.A. had been denied the right to work on government docks—a case of intimidation, he declared.

WILLIAM CAIRD
William Caird spoke of the work being done by the New Zealand government. The first thing this labor government did was to turn to the problem of unemployment, which was now virtually eliminated. A minimum wage at a decent standard of living was set up for all workers in New Zealand.

A commission was appointed to set the prices of farm commodities, Mr. Caird said. The radio was taken over and "mikes" put in the Parliament Buildings, much to the discomfort of Liberals and Conservatives. The transport system was revamped.

"Why cannot we do the things in Canada that New Zealand is doing?" Mr. Caird asked. "With our greater natural resources, we could go much farther."

James J. Walker saw the paradox of plenty and poverty, of technical ability, agricultural, mineral and productive resources on the one hand and men on relief on the other hand. The Conservatives and Liberals had faced this problem and failed. "Why not give us a chance?" he asked.

Don Smith spoke briefly before hurrying on to an Esquimalt meeting. He reminded the audience that the C.C.F. had warned them that the promises of the Liberals and Conservatives would not be kept, at the last campaign.

"In B.C. you still have an opportunity of preserving the means of life and the blessings of prosperity," Mr. Coldwell said, in speaking of the waste of forest and oil in Canada. "The C.C.F. is going to preserve the economic resources of the country."

The C.C.F. stood for more democracy, the national vice-president declared. The old line parties were flouting it in Ontario and Quebec.

There were men in the House who did know what was wrong with the country, Mr. Coldwell said, but they didn't give a lead, because the Liberals and Conservatives were but instruments of capitalism.

"You thought you turned the Conservatives out and put in a new government," he said, "but you didn't. You only changed the faces on the front bench. You did not change the power behind."

Mr. Coldwell warned them not to be fooled by Social Credit.

"Surely, it has already been demonstrated to the people of Canada in the province of Alberta that Social Credit is based on an economic fallacy. Money is title to goods, and the government cannot issue titles to goods it does not possess. The only way to get real social credit is for the people to own these goods."

According to Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, there were still 1,000,000 on relief in the urban centres of the Dominion, as well as 200,000 dependent on the government in the prairie provinces, Mr. Coldwell declared. "Is that not a challenge to our intelligence?" he asked.

FRED SPENCER AT GYRO CLUB

Gives Talk on Russia at Special Dinner at Uplands Club

About fifty members of the Gyro Club were in attendance at a dinner held at the Uplands Golf Club yesterday evening at which the guest speaker was Fred Spencer who gave an illustrated talk on his recent tour through Russia.

Mr. Spencer first referred to the great difficulty which he had in obtaining the moving pictures, which he showed to his audience following the lecture.

Owing to the severe restrictions placed by the government on amateur photographers and the resulting penalties imposed if caught, Mr. Spencer was forced to use his camera only when there was nobody watching. Consequently many of his rolls were "shot" from hotel windows and other secluded spots.

In the opening part of his address the speaker said he found the Soviet Union far different from what he had heard and read about it. Living conditions, he said, were far from ideal and prices made it impossible to live in the way that western countries did.

NO COMPETITION

Due to the fact that everything was run by the government there was a decided lack of the competitive system and consequently a marked tardiness on the part of the Russian individually and as a whole.

He described the "red tape" every worker in the country had to contend with in the course of his or her daily life. Each one carried a small red card which was presented for inspection going and coming from work.

There were no privileges or liberties in Russia, he said. No meetings could be held or associations formed privately.

Mr. Spencer touched on the censorship of news declaring no printed matter could be taken into the country. He also told of the difficulty a Russian citizen would have in crossing the border. One of these difficulties, he said, was due to the worthlessness of the rouble outside the country.

Angus McIntyre, president of the club, was in the chair.

Bill of Rights For Mothers

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

We have a charter for children with nineteen suggestions to further their welfare, but no one has thought to draw up any set of like resolutions for the happiness of mothers, I believe.

Therefore, I take it upon myself to inscribe ten resolutions in your behalf. Let us call them "Mother's Rights."

1. To be treated politely by each member of the family, no matter what mood he is in.
2. To be spared the careless litter of everyone over three years old, and the endless picking up, hanging up and putting away that makes house-keeping doubly hard.
3. To have co-operation in getting the day started and the children out of bed, big and little.
4. To be able to count upon requests or commands being heard the first time, not the third.
5. To receive family favors as consistently as doing favors for the family.
6. To have privacy respected, when you close your door once in a while for quiet and rest.
7. To expect more smiles than glooms, from those around you, few quarrels and general good nature.
8. To feel that the family likes to come home, and stay home a fair part of the time with you, instead of returning to be fed, dressed and quartered, and then hurrying away to spread their charms outside.
9. To be as well-dressed as your children, and find them unselfish enough to make it possible.
10. To take a day, or days, now and then, on a well-earned vacation as sure that the family will carry on cheerfully and well, during your absence.

Very possibly we would be looking for Gabriel and his heralding trumpet, if all these things came to pass; they do seem almost too much to expect. But it should not be so. There is no reason for a mother to be the ever-present "background," without moral support, and the consideration and courtesy that are her rights. Every child should learn these things and increase in grace, rather than decrease, with the years.

Unfortunately, it is you, yourself, mother, who will have to do much of the molding. To reap your harvest you will have to sow the seeds of generosity and helpfulness in your young from the very first. Their attitude to you will depend largely on their training by you.

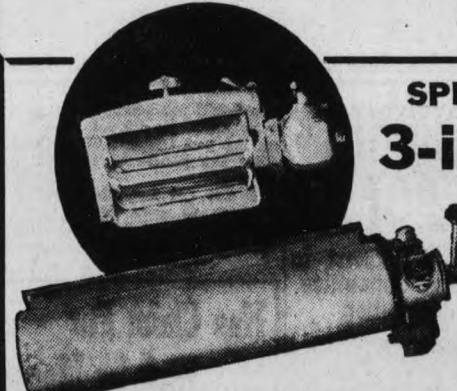

Nevertheless, the above are your dues, because they are the very roots of decency. I dedicate them to you especially, because so many families fail to see "mother" as a person, and gravitate into the habits of imposition and carelessness, making her load heavier because they steepen the grade.

Hart Appeals On Finance Record

B.C. Minister Says Continuation of Sound Business Principles Needed to Hold Confidence in Province; Byron Johnson, Mrs. Nancy Hodges and Ald. W. T. Straith Heard

"We are prepared to stand on our record of the last three and one-half years. Our fiscal policy is one of no increases in taxation, economy in administration, and the payment of relief out of current surpluses at the earliest possible time to balance the budget on all counts. A continuation of our present sound business theories is essential to accomplish this."

With this appeal and a sharp re-echo to Conservative criticism of government extravagance, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, led the Liberal candidates at their opening campaign meeting in Victoria West Social Hall last night. Byron Johnson, Mrs. Nancy Hodges and Alderman W. T. Straith were the other speakers with Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins as chairman.

"Despite all the talk you hear of extravagance, the ordinary government expenditures of this year, that is, our departmental costs, are $2,000,000 less than they were under the former regime in 1932," Mr. Hart declared. "They had to cut the heart out of everything to carry on as long as they did in 1933. And we have had to restore the services to an efficient basis. But we are still $2,000,000 below the 1932 expenditure."

DEBT INCREASES HELD DOWN

"You also hear of debt increases. Someone said the debt was $200,000,000. As a matter of record the net debt on March 31 was $152,995,000, an increase of $15,766,000 since we took office, despite relief borrowings of $18,000,000 and other loans for public works. In five years the former government increased the net debt $49,798,000, and only $10,000,000 of that was for relief. You might use the word extravagance for that. They are attacking us now in the hope you will forget the past."

The government's financial policy had not been spectacular, but eminently successful, Mr. Hart said.

It was laid down when he took over in 1933 and found an empty treasury. It had three main points: (1) to keep all ordinary expenditures, except relief costs and sinking funds, within the compass of ordinary revenue; (2) no increases in taxation; (3) borrowing from the Dominion for unemployment relief.

"We adhered strictly to it. The result now is that British Columbia's credit has risen to a point almost as high as Ontario and much higher than any other western province. Our last $3,000,000 loan was at the lowest rate in our history, and we are now beginning to pay part of our relief bill out of current revenue," he said.

CONFIDENCE RETURNED

"From the day we paid our $3,500,000 maturity in May of last year out of our accumulated surpluses the credit of British Columbia started upward," he said. "The investors became interested in us again. Capital started to come back for private investments. Canada again had confidence in British Columbia. You have seen the result in our industrial improvement."

BYRON JOHNSON

Byron Johnson, introduced by the chairman as a man who was offered five nominations in Vancouver, but preferred to stand in his home town of Victoria, paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Hart's ability as he did to that of the other two candidates. Mrs. Hodges, he said, could play a large part in social welfare matters, which were becoming increasingly important in governmental life. Alderman Straith, with his fine record of civic service, had a background which would be of extreme value in settling the problems of municipal rights, which must arise when the Royal Commission on taxation matters sits.

SPORTS ARENA PLAN

Mr. Johnson said private members of the House could play a big part in placing ideas before the councils of their parties.

He illustrated this with his own campaign for sports arenas, which had so far produced an allotment of $10,000 for improvement of playgrounds at British Columbia centres including Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

"My original proposal," he said, "was to have arenas constructed under the Federal works programme. The municipal governments could give tax free sites and the arenas would be turned over with clear title to local commissions. They would be administered to provide funds for the encouragement of amateur sport."

"I am still hopeful for this proposal. I believe the time is coming when our national and provincial governments must take a greater part in helping our youth as they have done in Britain. There is no better way than through sports."

Mr. Johnson mentioned that yesterday afternoon he had met the City Council in connection with the playing field grant and arrangements were made to put a box for lacrosse at the Athletic Park.

MRS. NANCY HODGES

Mrs. Hodges explained the ideas of the Liberals on social welfare matters, labor legislation and laws in the interests of wage-earners.

"Back in the early days of the minimum wage laws, just after the war, I sat on a board which heard the appeals of employees against injustices," she said. "I saw what a Liberal government was doing then to straighten out unfair methods. You all know that today, under the carefully administered labor laws of Mr. Pearson the industrial payrolls have risen $26,000,000 and 150,000 workers are protected. That alone is an achievement to make you proud of the Liberal party."

MOTHER'S PENSIONS

The present government, she said, had restored benefits in the Mothers' Pensions Act slashed by the former administration in its economy programme at the expense of those who could least afford it. Allowances for each child were raised from $5 to $7.50 a month.

Summing up the labor views of the Liberals, Mrs. Hodges said the finest unacknowledged tribute to the party was that a Labor Party such as that in Britain had never become established in Canada because their needs were met by the Liberals.

ALDERMAN W. T. STRAITH

Mr. Straith, keynoting for the other candidates, said they had no intention of any "mud-slinging" in the campaign.

"Personally I know most of the candidates of the other parties. They are fine men and women. Our only differences with them are in matters of principle. We will fight these issues to the limit, but will not overstep the bounds," he said. "We think the present government has done a splendid job, and when they dispute this we disagree with them."

Mr. Straith said he was pleased to see politics getting away from the old tradition of "my party right or wrong." It was because the Liberals granted their members freedom of thought, getting away from the old "caucus-ridden Parliament" that they were leading the way in this respect.

The Conservative claim of government extravagance was a cry of "wolf, wolf," he said. When one realized the importance to British Columbia of the tourist business, expenditures such as those on improvement of the Malahat Drive and extension of the West Coast Road could hardly be classed as extravagance.

"Mr. Hart had an empty purse when he took over. For two years he had to be careful. But as a result of his canny financing we are now in the position of being able to afford these very necessary services. I challenge anyone to point to a specific instance of waste or extravagance."

CITY COUNCIL BRIEFS

Sale of three parcels of land, one including three lots, was raised by the City Council yesterday on the recommendation of the lands committee. The council also approved tenders for the demolition of two old structures and ordered bids called for the removal of another. One transfer was authorized.

On the recommendation of the parks committee, the City Council yesterday accepted the tender of the National Motors for a $798 new light delivery truck for that department. The historic old truck, formerly used, valued at $25, was bequeathed to the Royal Oak Cemetery committee. "What are you going to do with it?" an alderman asked. "Probably bury it," Alderman Stanley Okell replied. Removal of a tree in front of 952 Humboldt Street was also authorized, and the council approved early starts on the painting of the Athletic Park grandstand and the Gorge Boathouse, the extension of the greenhouse and tool shed at Beacon Hill Park and the calling of tenders for a new boiler for the greenhouse heating system.

A complaint from Scott and Peden over the dust nuisance from the city garbage wharf was referred by the City Council yesterday to Alderman James Adam, one-man garbage committee.

The Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee will be asked to study a letter from S. A. Allison regarding willingness of property owners to grant rights of way and free access to the beach if a provincial government road is built around Ocean View Beach to a land-locked basin near Saanichton Spit. The communication was read at yesterday's council meeting.

The City Council yesterday received and filed communications from the Victoria Sign Artists' Association, protesting against decorative work done here by Vancouver concerns, and from the Victoria and District Unemployment Association, asking for higher relief allowances.

An explanation of letters submitted to the City Council by the executive of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association on the wage question and scale of pay for workmen on the Worst Mills project, was given to the council by Captain Burgess J. Gadsden yesterday. The council acquired the explanation and received and filed copies of the letters the ratepayers spokesmen left.

A letter from the vice-president of the American Mail Line, covering efforts made by his company to secure settlement of waterfront trouble as it affects American Mail Line boats touching here, was referred by the City Council to its industrial and trade development committee yesterday. Alderman R. A. C. Dewar stated he thought the matter should not be allowed to drop. He favored a fifty-fifty system which would allow the I.L.A. men to work cargo on the ship and Victoria Longshoremen's Association employees to handle it on the dock. An attempt had been made by the industrial committee to have that policy followed, Alderman Archie Wills said, but members of the Victoria organization had refused to agree.

Thanks of the Mayor of Duncan was extended to the City Council yesterday for the flowers Mayor Andrew McGavin sent to the anniversary dinner of the up-island town last Monday. Coupled with the flowers went the city's good wishes to Duncan.

The City Council stood in silent tribute yesterday to the memory of the late W. F. Fullerton, an alderman of the city from 1905 to 1911 and from 1913 to 1921. Alderman R. A. C. Dewar spoke of the loss his death had caused the city and to the high esteem in which he had been held. A vote of sympathy was extended to the bereaved family.

Alderman T. W. Hawkins, chairman of the electric lights and anniversary celebrations committees, yesterday answered charges of discrimination levelled at him by George Brisco, representative of the Northern Electric Company, in a letter read at the City Council meeting. Mr. Brisco charged Alderman Hawkins with handing out all electrical work to the Canadian General Electric Company. The alderman explained why it had been expedient to do business with the firm and cited several incidents in which the other concerns had not been able to meet requirements in time to secure contracts. In view of the fact the majority of items covered by Mr. Brisco's letter were related to the anniversary decorative work, Alderman Archie Wills, seconded by Alderman S. H. Okell, moved the letter be referred to that particular committee. The motion carried. Tenders for required electrical equipment, totalling $1,805 in all, were approved by the council.

Victoria's three routine tax by-laws, covering mill rate, boulevard taxes and cluster light levies, were finally passed by the City Council at its meeting yesterday.

Office hours at the City Hall will be changed to 8.30 to 4.30 o'clock week days and 8.30 o'clock to 12 o'clock noon on Saturdays for the period from June 1 to September 11, as the result of action taken by the City Council yesterday. A recommendation introduced by Alderman R. A. C. Dewar and seconded by Alderman J. D. Hunter, would have brought the application of the special summer hours forward to May 17.

On the recommendation of the city solicitor, the endorsement of the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals Ltd. will be sought for a special rental agreement on the Ogden Point grain elevators. The city had applied for a rental of $1 a year while the plant was not in use, but the document covering that action had been referred back to the council for the signature of the company despite an explanation to the effect a quit claim was pending from the other interests.

Satisfaction with the totalizer betting machines used at the Willows during race meets was expressed by the British Columbia Agricultural Association in a letter read to the City Council yesterday. The executive of the association further stated that any change in existing arrangements regarding betting would have to be made between the racing interests and the city itself. The matter was beyond their province, the association executive members said.

SEEK PHONES FOR POLICE

Council Refers Request to Special Wage Committee For Consideration

A recommendation from the police commission asking the City Council to pay for telephones for all members of the force was referred to the city's special wage committee yesterday.

Chief Thomas Healey presented arguments to the council at its meeting in support of the request. At present only five members of the force were allowed telephones and the men, were having their phones removed to save money, he said.

The chief emphasized the necessity of paying policemen sufficient wages to remove them from the temptations to which they were subjected in their particular work. Further, the chief noted, members of the force were frequently required for emergencies and could not be reached quickly if they had no phones. There was some dissatisfaction in the force when the firemen received telephones and the police did not, he said.

Costs of giving the police the service for the remainder of this year would be $862.40, D. A. Macdonald, comptroller, said.

If the police received their wages back, could they pay for their own telephones? Alderman S. H. Okell asked.

"Yes," the chief replied.

TABLE ISSUE
When the matter came up later in the meeting, Alderman James Adam moved to table the question for the year.

Alderman Okell presented an amendment to shelve the issue until the special wage committee had brought in a report on possible revision of the city salaries.

"What is the wage committee doing?" Alderman R. A. C. Dewar asked. The committee had held no meeting, pending receipt of further data, Alderman John Worthington, chairman, said. He hoped to have a session next week.

Alderman Archie Wills suggested in the meantime special consideration might be given those policemen who could not afford to retain their telephones. He did not think it was in the best interests of the city to have the policemen without telephones.

It was not fair, Alderman Dewar thought, to make fish of one and flesh of another. On that ground he opposed Alderman Wills's suggestion.

Has Claim For Kick by Moose

Provincial Police Constable J. V. Boys Has Odd Experience While on Patrol

The Workman's Compensation Board soon will get an application for medical costs from Constable J. V. Boys of the Telegraph Creek detachment of the Provincial Police.

The application will state that medical care was necessary for a gash in the head caused by a kick from a moose while on patrol. It appears that Constable Boys, who is stationed at one of the northern police outposts, was making a regular patrol with his dog team.

As the sleigh proceeded along in a snow flurry the dogs suddenly ran into a moose. Constable Boys was thrown forward to the ground and struck the moose. As he picked himself up, the moose indicated its annoyance at being disturbed, and kicked him in the head.

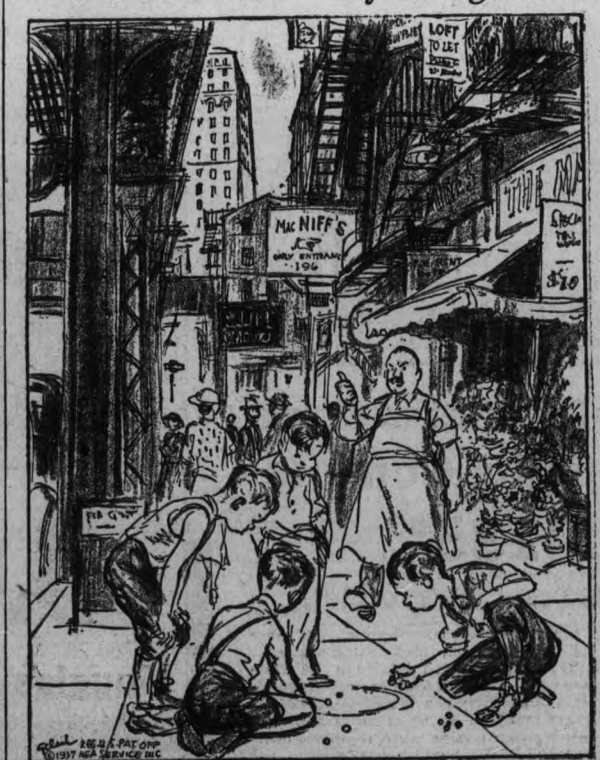

Officers at headquarters today explained it was not unusual to run into a moose lying in the snow in the northlands, as they seldom move unless injured or aroused.

Only the keenest of anglers would think of traveling half way around the world to fish, but H. Weightman, who is registered at the Empress Hotel from India, comes within that category.

Mr. Weightman, British political agent stationed at Khelat, Baluchistan, is here with his wife today after enjoying trout fishing in New Zealand.

He is eager to find out how the B.C. salmon are biting and plans to stay with Col. Allan Playfair at Qualicum Beach, to get in a few days with the rod before crossing Canada to catch the Empress of Australia at Quebec for England.

By PETE SALLAWAY

TURNING in a week's performance truly fitting to a champion, Mrs. E. Jackson, Uplands Club, reached the heights on Saturday afternoon at the Oak Bay links when she added the British Columbia crown to her already lengthy list of golf triumphs. The win of the Victoria veteran over Miss Kay Farrell, Vancouver, was a popular one, though even the most ardent supporter of the Uplands star never anticipated the victory would be in such a decisive manner. Mrs. Jackson, left no doubt in the minds of the gallery that she was far the better player on the day's performance. She was never in trouble, while her opponent was continually in traps or forced to come through with tough shots to keep in the running.

One of the outstanding features of Mrs. Jackson's play throughout she did not let the elements bother the week was the manner in which her. Take on the day of the qualifying round for instance. Although a mistral gale swept the course, the new champion stepped out and toured the layout in 83, being the only player to break ninety and heading the field by seven strokes. That's shooting golf. Then on Saturday it was blowing hard again, but Mrs. Jackson, knowing her shots, played just as well as if there had not been a breath of wind.

Mrs. Jackson is another of the proteges of Walter Gravin, popular professional at the Uplands, to carry off a major championship.

Visited the local palace of wrestling on Saturday night for the first time in several weeks, and what a laugh some of the spectators handed me. Got in just as the special event was well under way, and it went along nicely as old the semi-windup. There was the usual amount of booing and cheering, but nothing out of the ordinary. Then along came the main event between handsome Vincent Lopez, who claims Mexico as his native country, and one Paul Boesch, who boasts life-saving as one of many sidelines.

The pair opened up well. They put on their holds and got out of them with the polish of experts. In addition, the lads got the crowd worked up with considerable by-play such as biting, hitting with closed fist, etc. It appears that Boesch making the fifth straight appearance here, had become quite popular with the customers. So when Lopez started his biting tactics the fans did not like it a bit. Their "hero" was not getting a fair deal, and Lopez made a perfect "villain." He talked back to the ringside customers, even inviting them to step into the ring.

Then came the blow-off. Lopez very neatly twisted one of Boesch's legs between the ropes. Result, the ex-life guard did his face with "pain" and hobbled around the ring while Lopez threw out his chest like the true "bad man." Just to get the customers really mad he repeated the dose. It resulted in several of the more rabid supporters clambering up to the ring calling blue murder. One chap even grabbed hold of a chair and was all for climbing through the ropes and attacking the big Mexican. Another hopped around outside the ropes calling Lopez everything but a gentleman.

Just how some of this city's most staid citizens can go to one of these wrestling matches and become nothing more than raving maniacs is hard to understand. We doubt if they would believe how they act if told about it the next morning. And then there was the young debutante, who would have appeared more at home at a pink tea or cocktail party, sitting at the ringside shouting her head off and cheering on a wad of gum like a major league ball player working on his wad of tobacco. And the best part of all is that the majority of these fans believe it's all on the up and up.

Commercialized sport has become quite a common thing nowadays, but apparently it has reached new heights in the city of Calgary. Writing in his columns in The Calgary Herald, Ralph Wilson has the following to say:

"In recent years it has been a practice, not only in Calgary but in other parts of Canada, for business firms to supply equipment to athletic teams in return for which the teams adopt the name of the commercial sponsor. In Calgary this has been particularly true of football and basketball teams. The sponsor usually found that for the investment of a few dollars in sport equipment he received many dollars worth of free publicity in the newspapers. As a matter of fact, some of the sponsors made it a condition that this publicity should be secured by the team for the assistance given. It is often the case that not a single player on the team is even remotely connected with the firms sponsoring them.

Complete Roster Is Released For Canada-U.S. Tour

Eighteen Players Coming With English Club; Will Play Here June 14

Give History Of Members

Charlton Athletic, great London football team that made soccer history by advancing from the third division of the English League to the position of strong first league challengers in three years, will appear in Victoria on Monday, June 14, during the course of its Canadian and United States tour.

The club will play seven matches in Canada and six in the United States.

Charlton will bring eighteen players on the trip, all of them well-known in English football ranks.

Thumbnail sketches of the players and the manager follow:

Sam Barton—Goalkeeper, six feet, 182 pounds, red-haired, English and daring. A sound, consistent performer who has conceded only forty-nine goals during the past season. Made a hit in minor company at Bolton when he was spotted by Charlton scouts and has been in the first team for three years.

Herbert Turner—Rightback, five feet 11½ inches, 186 pounds. A Welsh international, he made his first impression with Charlton in a game against Swansea Town four years ago. Is described as a strong kicker and fearless tackler who seldom plays a bad game.

James Oakes—Leftback, five feet eight inches, 156 pounds. He is an Englishman and captains the team. First played as a professional with Port Vale and has had experience in all four divisions of the English League.

John Shreeve—Alternate back, six feet, 156 pounds. He had his baptism in major league play against the powerful Derby County eleven this year and contributed to a Charlton victory by holding Napier, clever Scottish international forward.

Joe Jobling—Right-halfback, five feet nine inches, 154 pounds. A sterling defender, he has been six years with the Athletic, being transferred from Norwich City. First attracted attention of big clubs when playing minor football in his native county of Durham.

Herbert Tann—Right-halfback, six feet, 160 pounds. A Londoner, he has just completed his first season with Charlton. Had a big share in 171 goals scored in the first three games he played.

John Oakes—Centre-halfback, five feet eleven inches, 172 pounds. Three Seed brothers have had a hand in development of the Cheshire-born Athletic pivot who is no relation to John Oakes. Anthony Seed discovered him as a youth. Angus installed him on Aldershot's team and Jimmy put him on the map at Charlton.

Don Welsh—Left-halfback, six feet, 170 pounds. Charlton paid Torquay United $16,250 for this star who has been chosen as reserve for England three times this season. Native of Manchester, Don was on draft to China with the navy when Torquay arranged his release from service.

Fred Ford—Left-halfback, six feet one inch, 172 pounds. He was born within sight of "The Valley," the Athletics' stadium. Formerly on Arsenal's roster, he is booked to step into Welsh's shoes when the veteran retires.

Monty Wilkinson—Outside right, five feet seven inches, 161 pounds. One of the fastest wingers in the game, he started as a centre-forward, understudying noted stars of Newcastle United, Everton and Blackpool. Latter club converted him into a right-winger.

Len Williams—Outside-right, five feet eight inches, 150 pounds. Welshman who came to Charlton from Chelsea, he has done most of his playing with the reserve team scoring plenty of goals. He started in big-time soccer with Portsmouth.

George Robinson—Inside-right, five feet eight inches, 161 pounds. Purchased as an outside-right from Sunderland, he lost his form and went out of major football to play for Burton Town. He did so well there that several clubs were after him, but Seed brought him back to Charlton.

George Tadmam—Centre-forward, five feet 10½ inches, 158 pounds. Born in Kent, this clever leader showed such brilliant form for Gillingham in 1935-36 season that he was soon marked for higher company. Charlton paid $5,000 for his services.

Battaglia-Steele In Title Bout Tonight

Both Battlers Are Hoping To Score Knockout

Champion Steele Remains 2 to 1 Choice to Take Fight at Seattle

Scrap Is Over Fifteen Rounds

Seattle, May 11.—Frankie Battaglia, one-time Winnipeg newsboy, tonight gets his second chance to lift the middle-weight boxing championship of the world. The statuesque Canadian-Italian faces "King" Freddie Steele in a bout scheduled for fifteen rounds that promises to be a knock-down, drag-out affair.

Despite the fact the champion is 2 to 1 favorite, Battaglia insists he has a 50-50 chance to win.

The two youths, rated among the heaviest clouters in middleweight ranks, were brought together by a quirk of circumstance. Steele was to have fought Ken Overlin of Richmond, Va., but the southern boy became ill after arriving in Seattle for the bout.

Battaglia and his manager leaped at the chance for a title go, in the face of Steele's vow he intends to use the fight as the vehicle to squash eastern critics. The Seattle clash is aroused by the opinion of eastern sports writers that "he doesn't look like a champ."

BOTH SEEK KNOCKOUT

The critics went so far as to say that Freddie looked out of place in a ring after they saw the champion successfully defend his crown in New York against the man he won it from—Eddie (Babe) Risko.

"I'll make them eat those words," said Steele as he wound up training. "I'll show 'em whether I'm a champion."

"I'm going to try my level best for a knockout, too," countered the challenger. "The champ can't duck them all for fifteen rounds, I don't think."

The two boxers were to weigh in at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Steele coming to the battle grounds from his home in Tacoma. The champion was expected to scale about two pounds lighter than Battaglia at about 157.

In the long-distance bout, the challenger figures he can wear Steele down with body punches and then put over his devastating right to the jaw.

If Battaglia drops Steele, he will be the first man to do the trick for the champion has never been knocked of his feet and has lost only two bouts out of ninety-three, and those defeats were during the days when Freddie was a welterweight.

Both boys have fought the same number of battles, but Battaglia has the most impressive knockout record. He has flattened fifty-two opponents and Steele thirty-eight.

"The Herald is glad to see any man or business firm give sport a boost for sport's sake. But it does not think that such individuals or firms should expect to be repaid for their generosity in free newspaper space. If they are supporting a team from motives of good sportsmanship, they will expect no other reward than the knowledge that they have furthered the interests of sport."

"The present scale of commercial sponsorship has forced The Herald to adopt a definite policy in this connection. It is this: Commercial names of teams will not be used in the future, but teams with commercial names may submit to the sports editor non-commercial names by which they may be called. If names are not submitted, The Herald will substitute such names as it may consider suitable."

BOB FELLER TAKES EXAMS

Schoolboy Pitching Star of Major Baseball Attends School Again

Van Meter, Iowa, May 11.—Bob Feller, eighteen-year-old baseball idol of thousands of American youngsters, opened a campaign today for a high school diploma.

Before graduation exercises Friday night the Cleveland Indians' bashful pitching sensation must take examinations in physics, psychology, literature and history.

"I can't figure out which will be tougher—facing Lou Gehrig or taking that physics exam," he said as he prepared to catch the orange and black Van Meter consolidated school bus that comes past his farm home. Bob said he figured he'd have to do some "cranking" for those exams. As for Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio and the other heavy hitters on New York Yankees, Bob would only intimate he expected to have his fireball smothering by May 23 when Cleveland plays the Yanks in New York.

HUMBER WILL OPPOSE ORR

Teammates on Canadian Olympic Track Squad Clash in Collegiate Meet

Pullman, Wash., May 11.—Two men who were teammates on the Canadian Olympic team at Berlin last summer will race against each other here Saturday when the University of Washington and Washington State College meet in the northwest's track and field classic.

Bruce Humber of Victoria will carry Washington's hopes in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes. Lee Orr of Vancouver will be the Cougars' main speedster in the short sprints. It will be their first meeting in inter-collegiate competition. Orr is a sophomore and Humber a veteran varsity man.

At Berlin, Orr placed fifth in the finals of the 200-meter dash and equalled the Olympic record in a qualifying heat, before Jesse Owens raised havoc with it. Both Orr and Humber won the relay team the day after placed fifth. In their team tryouts, Humber won the 100-yard and Orr the 220-yard events.

Coach Karl Schlademan held Orr out of the meet with the University of Oregon here last Saturday. He was nursing a slight groin strain suffered in high jumping. He will be in top shape this week, Schlademan said.

SIXTEEN RACE HORSES LOST

Fire at Pimlico Track Destroys Number of Leading Thoroughbreds

Baltimore, May 11.—Fire that broke out mysteriously in a forty-four stall barn at the Pimlico race track left sixteen thoroughbreds dead Sunday, among them J. Martin's Preakness candidate, Triple Action, a promising gelded son of Canterbury Momma.

Martin reported he lost six other horses but his highly-prized handicapper runner, Dark Hope, and several others were saved. Justa Regent, a three-year-old gelding, and Badge of Honor, a four-year-old, perished along with four two-year-olds.

Sixteen horses in the care of Richard A. Johnson of Laurel, Md., either burned to death or had to be destroyed. One, Flag of War, belonged to Johnson; three—Worthington, an eight-year-old, and two two-year-olds, to L. H. Frye, and one to George R. Riggs.

Also lost were Swift Flash, a three-year-old owned by W. E. Johnson of Devon, Pa., and Impudence, a two-year-old belonging to L. H. Frennan of Monks, Md.

Pitching Event Billed Tomorrow

Horseshoe pitchers of Victoria will gather at the Blanshard Street and Pandora Avenue grounds tomorrow to compete in a special Coronation contest open to all followers of the sport in the city. No entry fee will be charged for the event, which will be divided into two sections for each of which two prizes have been posted.

Officials in charge of the event will receive post entries up to 1:30 o'clock, and play will start half an hour later.

BOB HART DIES

Lowell, Mass., May 11.—Eugene P. (Bob) Hart, fifty-seven, former umpire in both major baseball leagues and in several minor circuits, died last night.

Unmasked Shadow May Appear Here

Local wrestling officials are this week endeavoring to book James Casey Morrissey, Memphis matman, who enacted the role of the "Red Shadow" up until last week when he was forced to unmask after being pinned by Vincent Lopez, for Saturday night's wrestling card at the Tillicum gym.

Big Ben Morgan, huge bearded blacksmith from the Ozarks, who weighs about a sixth of a ton, has been signed for the show. Morrissey, it is understood, still wears his red regalia and will probably enter the ring in it, but before the match starts the mask will come off.

CHARLTON BRINGING GREAT SOCCER TEAM

came from amateur ranks and shows promise of developing into a first-class player.

Leslie Boulter—inside-left, five feet seven inches, 154 pounds. A Welshman, he came to Charlton several years ago while still in his teens. He was not immediately successful but dug in and by hard work has become the team's regular inside-left.

George Green—inside-left, five feet eleven inches, 154 pounds. The Spaniard was brought this player to Charlton. In Spain recuperating from illness, he played for Barcelona, leaving for England when hostilities started. Two officials of his Spanish club were among the first killed at opening of the war.

George Stephenson—inside-forward, five feet ten inches, 158 pounds. A fine utility forward, he can play either inside position. A brother of Clem Stephenson, Huddersfield Town manager, he coaches younger players and does a bit of scouting in his spare time.

Harold Hobbs—outside-left, five feet nine inches, 154 pounds. He is one of England's leading players and has been on international teams. His ball control is spectacular and he is a prolific scorer, netting twenty-two goals in the 1935-36 season.

James Seed—Secretary-manager. A north of England man, he is given nearly all credit for Charlton's spectacular advance. After war service he played for Mid-Rhonda in South Wales but was soon signed by Tottenham Hotspurs. While with Spurs he played for England against Scotland, Ireland, Wales and Belgium. In 1929 and 1930 he captained the Sheffield Wednesday team that won two successive league championships. Leaving player ranks he managed Clapton Orient for a time, taking over Charlton Athletic four years ago.

Mayor Andrew McGavin Declares Holiday as City Coronation Feature

To the cheers of happy students in Victoria high and grade schools, Mayor Andrew McGavin and members of the City Council proclaimed a holiday for pupils generally following special Coronation presentations in the different schools today.

The announcement came as a complete surprise to the pupils. The grade schools had assembled in their auditoriums to receive pictures of King George VI in the grade schools and at the High School they had been presented with a moving picture projector.

Starting at the High School at 9 o'clock this morning, Mayor McGavin, accompanied by Aldermen W. T. Straith, John A. Worthington and James Adam, opened the tour of the different schools. The gift of the projector at the High School, followed by the announcement of the vacation for the remainder of the day, brought ringing cheers from the student body and the city fathers were given a rousing send-off as they left to spread the happy tidings to other sections of the city.

Alderman Straith left the main group following the opening presentation and proceeded to distribute pictures of the King in eight of the city's schools, while the mayor and other aldermen took care of the rest.

Big Programme Will Keep Citizens Busy

Starting With Official Broadcast of Coronation in London at 1 o'clock Tomorrow Morning, Schedule Calls For Continual Activity Until Late

Victorians looked forward to a long day tomorrow. Starting shortly after midnight tonight, they will listen to the official broadcast of the Coronation in London, and then be up until after the fireworks and dances tomorrow night. With a forecast of fair weather to lighten them, the celebration committee and kindred organizations assisting in the city's observance of Coronation Day, made final plans for public festivities.

"According to this morning's map, we are not expecting rain. The weather may not be perfect, but it does not look bad from present indication," W. A. Thorn, of the Gonzales Hill Observatory, stated today.

The special diocesan service in Christ Church Cathedral, tomorrow morning will start at 9:30 o'clock and will be completed within an hour.

AT PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS

Coupled with the announcement of final plans for the open air ceremony before the Parliament Buildings, starting 10:40 o'clock, the authorities today made a request to the general public to exercise every care in the preservation of shrubs and flowers bordering the lawns.

Ticket holders entitled to occupy reserved spaces immediately next to the main steps of the building are advised to enter the grounds through the colonnade next to the Museum if their locations are on the east of the steps. Those with reservations on the west are requested to find their places through the colonnade between the main body of the building and the west wing.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Sponsors Presentation to Esquimalt Institutions

Students of Esquimalt's public and high schools this morning honored the Coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, and received tokens to commemorate the event.

Gathered in the auditorium of Lamson Street School the students accepted through their principal, Hugh Creelman, framed portraits of Their Majesties, the gifts of the I.O.D.E. The presentation was made by Mrs. G. P. Clarke, regent of the Mary Croft Esquimalt Chapter.

Mrs. Clarke also handed to each student a Coronation medal, supplied by the municipal chapter, and a copy of a special booklet issued by the Department of Education.

Major A. A. Warder, chairman of the Esquimalt School Board, presided at the ceremony.

Reeve Alexander Lockley expressed the hope that the new King and Queen would see a long and prosperous reign, free from wars and rumors of wars.

R. H. Pooley, K.C., pointed to the King as a symbol of the ideals of the British people—peace, order, freedom and justice—but a symbol over which the people themselves had rights.

Rev. Arthur Bischlager, Rev. Father A. B. Wood and Rev. F. W. Anderson also addressed the schools briefly on various aspects of the Coronation.

The students sang "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and the Coronation Ode.

PIPE BAND TO SAN FRANCISCO

Victoria to Be Represented By Scottish in Golden Gate Fiesta

The pipe band of the First Battalion of the Canadian Scottish Regiment will represent Victoria at the Golden Gate Fiesta in San Francisco, May 27 to June 2, according to an announcement made by Major Stuart Robertson today.

An appeal is made for money to finance the trip of nineteen pipers and drummers. Already $650 has been promised and the regiment is seeking a total of $1,000.

It is pointed out that Victoria will gain tremendous publicity and advertising from the participation of this band in the fiesta. Two million people are expected to pour into San Francisco for the opening of Golden Gate Bridge. Every city on the Pacific Coast is taking part in the gigantic parade. Victoria's contribution will be unique in that no other pipe band will be seen there.

The band, which will be in charge of Major Stuart Robertson and Pipe Major Alec Wallace, will leave Victoria on May 24.

Roaming the northwest on a vacation trip, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Denton of Chardon, Ohio, are at the Empress Hotel today. Mr. Denton is a newspaperman and was formerly identified with the news staff of The Cleveland Plain Dealer. Chardon is located twenty-eight miles northeast of Cleveland and is in the heart of the maple syrup country. "We were on the coast visiting Los Angeles and had the urge to see Victoria before we returned home," said Mr. Denton.

The Friendly Help Welfare Association's appeal for $5,500 for the year's operations and for the Fred Landsberg Sunshine Camp is well into its stride, to judge from reports submitted in Spencer's dining-room last night at the close of the first day's campaigning.

In all $2,508 in pledges and $1,437 in cash were chalked up on the board during the evening.

TRIBUTE FROM DEAN

Tribute to the aim of the Friendly Help Welfare Association—to help people to help themselves—was paid by Dean Cecil S. Quainton, the principal speaker at the meeting. He outlined the history and the objects of the organization and gave encouragement to the campaign workers.

"This association is organized to get a square deal for the working man," he said, after attacking the attitude of some people who said the poor ought to be contented with their lot while they themselves showed little sign of any sentiment unless they were adding to their incomes.

The Friendly Help, said the Dean, left the initiative up to the people it sought to help, and in the main waited for the first advances from them. It was ready to consider all such appeals for aid.

He stressed the importance of one of the phases of the association's work—the teaching of proper budgeting for families and the importance of economical buying.

The next report meeting of the campaign will be held in Spencer's dining-room on Friday evening.

organization, requested the mayor to join the group, noting the mayor had informed a delegation of which he was a member, that it should interview the provincial authorities for aid.

The unemployed are seeking a 50 per cent increase in food allowance and a raise of $4.50 a month in the grant for rent.

Mr. Allman was accompanied by another large delegation of unemployed who waited in the main corridor of the City Hall while he interviewed the mayor's secretary.

SMITH OPENS
HIS CAMPAIGN

C.C.F. Candidate in Esquimalt Pledges Himself to Co-operative Movement

Don Smith, C.C.F. candidate in Esquimalt, declared at a meeting in St. Paul's parish hall last night that the C.C.F. will make no promises, but merely wants support from those who think the time has arrived for a co-operative commonwealth to some into being in the province.

"When we come into office," said Mr. Smith, "the fight will have only begun. We intend to clip the wings of the capitalist interests and anyone who does that will have a fight on his hands. We'll need moral support after the election as well as your votes now."

The provincial party, he asserted, stood solidly behind the C.C.F. Regina manifesto. Its prime objective was to give the people control over the means of production.

Financed by the "nickles and dimes" of its supporters, the C.C.F. was battling against odds, but some day would achieve its purpose, he maintained. It had predicted the Liberals could not implement their promise of work and wages in the last election and retained this view.

M. J. Coldwell, M.P. for Rosemont-Biggar, and Elmer Roper, C.C.F. organizer in Alberta, spoke in support of Mr. Smith. John Smith of Langford presided.

PAUL CHABAS,
PAINTER, DIES

Paris, May 11.—Paul Chabas, who painted the famous picture "September Morn" in 1912, died yesterday, aged sixty-eight. For two years he had been an invalid and the only painting on the walls of his room was his own copy of the picture that made him world famous.

"I love that picture," he said recently of "September Morn." "They call it my masterpiece—perhaps it is. I only know that in it is all that I know of painting."

"Morne de Septembre" was painted at Talloires on the shore of Lake Annecy in Upper Savoy with a peasant girl as model.

Since 1925 M. Chabas had done very little painting. He lived in a three-story house on the outskirts of Paris with only a housekeeper and a trained nurse. His wife died four years ago.

CONFLICT RECALLED

New York, May 11.—The death of Paul Chabas in Paris yesterday recalled how his famous picture "September Morn" became the centre of a conflict on morals in art when it was brought to New York.

The painting showed a nude girl standing ankle deep in water at the edge of a lake. Exhibited at the French Royal Academy in 1912, it won a medal and polite though indignant comment. No one offered to buy it.

Chabas brought it to New York and a firm on Forty-sixth Street set it in the window. In May, 1913, the late Anthony Comstock, campaigner against what he termed "indecent" art, saw the picture, considered its nudity and was offended.

Comstock demanded the manager of the shop remove the picture from the window and was refused. The ensuing publicity went around the world as Comstock and others of similar sentiments attacked indecency in art. Crowds fought to see the Chabas work and reproductions of "September Morn" appeared on calendars, cigar bands and postcards.

LEWIS WARNED

Hepburn Says Arrest Awaits Him If He Comes and Advocates Lawlessness

St. Thomas, Ont., May 11.—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario declared last night he would be the first to order the arrest of John L. Lewis, chairman of the United States Committee for Industrial Organization, if Lewis "has courage enough to come into this province and advocate lawlessness and bloodshed."

The Premier was addressing the fiftieth birthday celebration of Unity Lodge No. 47 of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, attended by 500 members of the international union and their friends.

"He (Lewis) will get that which he deserves from a Canadian court, for the first time," Mr. Hepburn continued. "That is the way we are going to deal with those (C.I.O.) men. They are going to find themselves speaking out of turn."

"We are not going to pussyfoot. We are going through with it and when I can't step aside and let someone else do it."

The Premier prefaced his C.I.O. references with a reiteration of his friendliness toward organized labor and his belief that working men and women had the right to organize the right to bargain collectively and the right of international affiliation.

"With the return of prosperity everyone must realize that labor must receive a larger share of profits," he said.

"Maine de Septembre" was painted at Talloires on the shore of Lake Annecy in Upper Savoy with a peasant girl as model.

Since 1925 M. Chabas had done very little painting. He lived in a three-story house on the outskirts of Paris with only a housekeeper and a trained nurse. His wife died four years ago.

FINE COMEDY
AT DOMINION

Virginia Bruce and Kent Taylor Are Starred in "When Love Is Young"

A sprightly romantic comedy, Universal's "When Love Is Young," opens today at the Dominion Theatre, featuring Virginia Bruce, Kent Taylor and Walter Brennan. The picture blends the pathos of a deeply human experience with the orilliance of Broadway's laughter and song.

In "When Love Is Young," Miss Bruce sings and dances to tunes especially written for her by Jimmy McHugh and Harold Adamson.

The picture, based on a McCall Magazine story, "Class Prophecy," deals with an obscure country girl who, snubbed by classmates and ignored by the school hero she admires, accompanies her uncle to New York to study singing.

Kent Taylor is the nimble-witted press agent and Walter Brennan brings an entirely new character to the screen in his humorous role as the uncle who operates a sidewalk telescope in New York.

In addition to singing two hit songs, "When Love Is Young" and "Did Anyone Ever Tell You?" Miss Bruce dances for the first time on the screen.

Hindenburg

Movies Here

Exclusive newreel pictures of the disaster which struck the German zeppelin Hindenburg as it was about to land at Lakehurst, N.J., last Thursday, arrived here yesterday and are being shown at the Capitol Theatre.

John Robertson, manager of the theatre, announced the pictures were rushed here by plane and boat and will be shown all week in conjunction with the musical spectacle "Maytime," starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Breaking all records for insistent demand on the part of the public, "Maytime," starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, is now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Beauty and charm of "Maytime" have never been surpassed in any motion picture production, and it has certainly never been equalled in musical perfection.

A picture that took a year to make, it is delightfully pleasing to eye and ear.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

"Stampede," Columbia's smashing new film of the outdoors, starring Charles Starrett, is now at the Columbia Theatre.

"Stampede" tells of a two-gun trooper and a fast-shooting girl who defied the robbers of the range.

"The eternal triangle" became "the infernal triangle" for Joe E. Brown in "When's Your Birthday?" the David L. Loew production in which the comedian is now starring, and which is coming tomorrow to the Atlas Theatre.

So occupied with his work as an astrologist that he can give his thoughts to only one girl, Brown finds himself in perpetual hot water when his old love attempts to resume her place in his life, and his new sweetheart receives unwelcome and persistent attention from the man who has now become his rival, Marian Marsh.

Edward Gargan and Gup Kibbee are the stars in "Jim Hanvey, Detective," which will be the second feature on the programme.

PLAZA THEATRE

Fay Wray and Ralph Bellamy are the stars in Columbia's latest picture, "Roaming Lady," which is now attracting large audience to the Plaza Theatre and sending them away satisfied.

This picture is the film adaptation of Diana Bourbon's widely read magazine story.

OAK BAY THEATRE

A rare treat is in store for music lovers when Pickford-Lasky's "The Gay Desperado," brings Nino Martini, famous singing star of opera, radio and films, to the Oak Bay Theatre today.

In addition to the original songs written for Martini, there will be several operatic solos, and a number of Mexican folk songs.

Selected Issues Advance In Quiet Rally On Wall St.

Associated Press

New York, May 11.—With rally furnishing the motive power, selected stocks today put on a crawling rally for a while only to meet further selling pressure in the final run.

Buying was sluggish throughout, and the ticker tape found little work to do most of the day.

The list extended Monday's setback fractions to two or more points at the opening. Support soon appeared and losses were reduced or canceled. Advances were held well up to the last lap. There was a wide assortment of minus signs at the close.

U.S. Steel led the morning retreat. It came back later, along with the carriers and a number of specialties, then again turned downward.

Boardrooms saw nothing especially exciting in the news, and the feeble recovery move was attributed principally to in-and-out traders who saw chances for quick profits as a result of yesterday's washout.

Broad spreads between bids and offers in several cases evidenced the "thinness" of dealings.

Transfers were around 750,000 shares.

Stanley's Adventures in Africa

VII—PYGMIES IN CAMP
In February, 1888, Stanley and his men reached a point almost at the exact center of Africa. They camped near the Ituri River, a few miles north of the equator.
That region, as they learned, was the home of pygmies (also spelled "pigmies"), folks with brown or reddish-yellow skins. One day some of Stanley's men went into a forest and, seeing some pygmies, began to chase them. One of them, the wife of a chief, was captured and taken to camp. We are told that she was "of light brown complexion, with broad round face, large eyes and small but full lips," and that her height was about four feet and four inches.

A Pygmy queen was captured

That was a rather good height for a pygmy woman. Some of the men are shorter than that, and the average height of the men is only about 4½ feet.
Going back in history, we find that a Greek historian wrote something about them 2,400 years ago. He told about five young men who had gone exploring on the Libyan desert and had come back with this strange tale:

"We traveled toward the south, taking with us a good supply of food and water. We came to a country filled with wild beasts, then we crossed a sandy stretch of desert, going in a westerly direction and spending many days on the journey."

"At last we came to a plain where many trees were growing. Going near the trees we found there was fruit on them, and began to gather it. While we were taking down the fruit, a number of dwarfs came upon us, and seized us. They took us to their village, where all the men were dwarfs. A great river, containing crocodiles, flowed past the town. At last the dwarfs let us go, and we returned safely to our country."

Not many persons in Europe believed that Africa really contained pygmies until explorers reached the heart of Africa in the nineteenth century. On a later date, Stanley's men captured more of the dwarfs, four women and a boy.
"One of them," wrote Stanley, "had small, cunning, monkey eyes, closely and deeply set. The others had large round eyes, broad foreheads, round faces, small hands and feet."

Twenty of the dwarfs had been seen stealing plantains which belonged to the natives of Itepepeya. Plantains are very much like bananas, though not so sweet, and make an important part of the food supply in Central Africa. It is a common thing for pygmies to take fruit which is being cared for by the large-sized African natives, but they give service in return. In our next story we shall have more to say about them.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—From my high school days until I married I always worked as a secretary to men, doing interesting and exciting work. I kept my job after I married until my baby came, and then my husband insisted that I give up my work and stay at home and take care of the child instead of hiring some one else to do it. I agree that it is for the best interest of the child and for four years I have done so, but I have such periods of rebellion and monotony of housework that I think sometimes I can't stand it. And how I miss the contacts of the business world and my own money, the ability to buy things when I want them and lack of good clothes! I am getting a definite inferior feeling with it all. A child is sweet and I love mine, but it does seem as though a woman has to make such a tremendous sacrifice and adjustment when she gives up business just to be a wife and mother. Knowing the stimulation of the business and professional world as you do and knowing the lack of it for the home woman, and also knowing that most women who have their outside work are more interesting and wide-awake persons than purely domestic women, what would be your suggestion for a girl's training?

CHANGED PERSONALITY.

Answer—The trouble with us women is that we can't have our cake and eat it, too, while men can. If that is one of the great injustices of sex, it is one that nature imposes upon us, and there is nothing we can do about it.

When a man marries he simply adds the comforts of a home, the society of a wife, the happiness of having children to the joy and independence and interest and excitement he gets out of his career. He doesn't have to give up being a doctor, or a lawyer, or a business man because he has taken up himself a wife and there is a blessed event impending in his family. Nor does domesticity interfere in his efficiency. On the contrary, he is generally a better doctor, or lawyer, or business man because he is a good husband and father.

But wives and careers do not mix. No woman can turn out a really first-class job in either if she is trying to do both. Especially can no woman be a good mother unless she gives her personal attention to her children. No professional tenderness is like that of a mother. No expert can pinch-hit for even an untrained mother.

But motherhood is the hardest, the most unceasing, the most monotonous and exhausting work in the world. It is a twenty-four-hour-a-day job that has in it no holidays or time off or sitdown strikes, seldom even a pay envelope. And no one need be surprised that the woman who has given up a mahogany desk for a cradle sometimes pines for the old days when she knocked off work at 5 o'clock and had her evenings to herself; when she could spend her money in the beauty shop instead of for doctors' bills for Junior; when she could listen to stimulating talk all day instead of baby's da-da and goody gooo.

For everything we get we have to pay, and there is no doubt that the price of women's success in the outside world has been to dissatisfy most of them with domesticity and unfit them for it. There is no use in sentimentalizing about this. There are more thrills in dressing yourself up and going downtown to work than there is in putting on a bungalow apron and going into the kitchen. It is more interesting to work in a crowd, where there is something new to see and hear every minute, than to work alone in a house where there is nobody to talk to but a child. So the woman who has been used to her own money is never reconciled to having to corkscrew every cent she gets out of her husband.

But there is nothing that can be done about it. It is just one of the immutable laws of life that the woman who has children must pay for them by going through the agony of bearing them and the long years of sacrifice in rearing them. Happy is she who gets joy in doing it. And happier still she whose children reward her with love and appreciation and by being an honor to her.

But the job of the business woman and the job of the mother are not the same. There is no training that you can give a girl that will fit her for pulling them off simultaneously.

DEAR MISS DIX—We are a group of high school students studying manners and conduct, with a view of improving ourselves and developing better personalities. The other day we read that Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler said: "In respect to manners and personal conduct, present-day habits are quite shocking. One wonders why it is that youth can come to full adolescent years with no apparent appreciation of the difference between good manners and their opposite." Do you think this is true? If it is true, what would you suggest as the remedy for this situation?

MEMBERS OF SENIOR CLASS.

Answer—You have only to look about you and see how totally lacking, not only in good manners but in all regard for the rights and privileges of others, most of the younger generation are to realize how true is Dr. Butler's statement.

Every day we see boys and girls dressed in the latest models from Paris and the newest thing in college-cut clothes, but who do not know how to eat properly; who grunt when they are spoken to; who enter a room without acknowledging the presence of any one in it; who are rude to old people; who never say "thank you" for any courtesy; who never write a "bread-and-butter" letter; who have the manners of bores instead of ladies and gentlemen. These young people have no address. They do not know how, in the slang of the day, to sell themselves to even the people they want to please. As a result, they handicap themselves by making enemies instead of friends and shut the door of opportunity in their faces.

I know personally of one man who missed getting a big job for which he was eminently fitted in other respects because he gargled his soup. Only recently I heard of a girl whose fiancé broke his engagement to her because she burned his mother's best tablecloth with a cigarette. I have known many a boy who was given a helping hand by some old man or woman to whom he was courteous.

Of course, when young people have bad manners their parents are to blame for it, because manners should be taught in the cradle. By the time a child is five years old they should be so drilled into him that they are second nature. It is the parents who think that Johnny and Sally will outgrow eating with their knives and grabbing the best seat in the car and mumbling when spoken to, who bring up the young savages who have to write to authorities on etiquette to learn what a refined person should do.

But when Mother lies down on her job because it is troublesome to make children eat like civilized people instead of pigs, the best thing that can be done is for the youngsters who recognize the lack of manners to go to work to try to cultivate them, as you are doing.

DOROTHY DIX.

HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, MAY 12, 1937

"The stars incline, but do not compel."
Adverse planetary influences dominate today, according to astrology. It is a planetary government that seems to be distinguished by evil portents.
Distorted views of men and things may be widespread, causing unrest, discontent and even violence. The stars warn men that they must work out their own destinies instead of depending upon relief agencies.
In London the King may meet secret enemies as he accepts the crown. The stars bode ill for certain British statesmen who carry heavy responsibilities.
There is a favorable sign read as promising for the future of the Queen and the princesses. Women's influences are to be strong in the reign of George VI.
Women should benefit under this rule of the stars, which presages a season of flattering fashions and social gaiety for this country will reflect something of the regal glories of England.
London astrologers who have read horoscopes of British statesmen find ill omens read as foreshadowing a world war that will put the last conflict in the dark.
Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of omens that may lead to pleasant harmonies. For the young, secret love affairs are indicated.
Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly temperamental as well as practical. Subjects of this sign are often self-willed and independent.
Henry Cabot Lodge, statesman, was born on this day, 1850. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include James Sheridan Knowles, English dramatist, 1784, and Sir Arthur Sullivan, composer, 1862. (Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Fernie Relief Strike Persists

Workers Cancel Verbal
Agreement to End Walkout;
Picketing Projects

Fernie, B.C., May 11.—Unemployment relief workers of this East Kootenay city yesterday repudiated a verbal agreement they had given to British Columbia relief authorities on Saturday to end a month-old strike for increased relief allowances, and said they would picket government relief projects.

The new decision was announced after a mass meeting of several hundred relief strikers who claimed their return-to-work agreement Saturday had been made under duress.

Relief allowances issued Saturday covered only women and children, amounts due male heads of families being deducted where required work had not been done.

The men promised to return to work. Their verbal promise given, the men received their refunds.

SEAMEN HURT IN BIG GALE

Ss. City of Singapore Limp
Back to San Pedro After Fighting Storm

San Pedro, Calif., May 11.—The freighter City of Singapore, battered by an eighty-mile-an-hour hurricane for four hours while 150 miles at sea, limped into the harbor here late yesterday with twenty injured seamen and a deadly cyanide cargo floating in one hold.

The ship's master, Capt. T. R. Watkins, said the hurricane was the worst he had experienced in forty years at sea.

The skipper said the freighter, which left the harbor Sunday for Manila with a full cargo of general merchandise after bunkering here, was struck by the hurricane at midnight Sunday without warning.

"The wind was better than eighty miles an hour," said the veteran skipper. "For four hours, the waves broke high over the ship and for a time we thought we were all going down. It happened so suddenly that with all the crew on deck we didn't have time to batten down the hatches."

Hears of Fire in Roundabout Way

San Francisco, May 11.—Mayor Angelo J. Rossi learned through a telephone call from London yesterday that there had been a $200,000 fire on the San Francisco waterfront.

About 7 a.m. the mayor's phone rang. "Europe calling," said the operator. "Wait a moment, please."

"Europe" turned out to be The London Daily Mirror.

"Tell us about the fire on your waterfront," said a voice.

"You're telling me something," replied his honor. "I hadn't heard about it but if you will call back in about ten minutes, I'll have the information for you."

The mayor found out from the fire department that the blaze had been under way for a couple of hours.

He waited, but the London writer got tied up in the Coronation story or something, and forgot to call back.

Plane Landing Earns Praise

Pilot in Far North Lands
Machine With Damaged
Ski on Lake Ice

The Pas, Man., May 11.—Airmen counted another victory over the Canadian northland today as they praised Pilot E. W. Ted Stull of Winnipeg for his skilful landing of his plane with one ski damaged, on ice of Mooseose Lake, 200 miles south of Churchill on the Hudson Bay Railroad.

The ski was shattered yesterday afternoon as Stull took off from Churchill with four passengers, bound for The Pas in northwest Manitoba.

Wings Limited, owners of the plane, and employers of its five occupants, rushed a doctor from The Pas eighteen miles north to Clear Lake, where the plane was due to land. Still, however, decided to make an early landing on the advantage of full daylight. He set the plane down safely on the little lake near Fort, at mile 288 on the Hudson Bay Railroad. Passengers were uninjured. Stull arranged for their transportation to The Pas by rail but will continue the flight himself when the damaged ski is repaired.

Stull had been directing transportation of eight men and some twenty-five tons of mining equipment and supplies from Churchill to Canken Inlet, 300 miles north of the Hudson Bay Post. He was returning to The Pas with Paul Dow, chief radio engineer of Wings Limited, Fred Darnell, Ralph Perrie, all of Winnipeg, and Douglas Cameron, Kenora, Ont.

Veteran aviators say planes have been landed with damaged undercarriage, skis or pontoons, a number of times in the Canadian northland and to their knowledge all such landings have been made without injury to pilots or passengers.

YUKON RIVER MOVES AGAIN

C. T. Atherton of Whitehorse
Wins Sweepstake of $3,500
in Annual Classic

Dawson, Y.T., May 11.—The Yukon River ice broke up yesterday, but without the usual crackling roar that in former years brought half the town of Dawson to the river bank with the cry "She's moving!"

Though the spectacle of the breakup was missed by many, excitement ran high in this one-time gold-rush centre as destinations of a $3,500 pool and private bets were settled.

Charles T. Atherton of Whitehorse, member of the Council for South Yukon, won the $3,500 pool, holding the ticket timed 11.48 a.m., the exact time of the breakup.

It was the third consecutive year that a resident of Whitehorse had won the pool.

Warship Enters Fraser River

New Westminster, May 11.—Entering the great river after which she was named, the Canadian destroyer Fraser slipped into port yesterday afternoon from her base at Esquimalt.

Commander H. E. Reid, R.C.N., was informally welcomed by Mayor F. J. Hume and Lieut.-Col. P. J. Simpson.

Officers and crews will be entertained by local naval and military organizations this evening. The destroyer will sail at daylight tomorrow for manoeuvres in the Gulf, and will return at 8.45 o'clock with an escort of seaplanes for the official celebration of the Coronation in the city named after the district of London where the actual crowning will take place.

Father Hubbard Will Sail North

Father Hubbard and his party will sail from here May 20 on the coast-guard cutter Northland for King Island, which lies in the strait north-west of Nome.

Edgar Levin, San Jose, Cal., and Kenneth Chisholm, San Francisco, making arrangements for the trip, said Father Hubbard, in Chicago today, would return to Santa Clara by May 17 and leave there immediately for Seattle.

The purpose of the expedition is to translate the Eskimo language into an English-Eskimo dictionary.

TO FLOODLIGHT GREAT VESSEL

Empress of Japan Will Be
Illuminated as Coronation
Gesture

Vancouver, May 11.—Vancouver harbor will be treated to a spectacular marine display tonight and tomorrow night when the Pacific's largest liner, the Empress of Japan, will appear floodlighted for the first time as a Coronation gesture. Like other ships of the Canadian Pacific deep-sea and coastal fleets the 25,000-ton speed queen will don all her flags, going into full dress for the occasion.

At night, however, the white glances will be a thing of beauty as high candle-power lamps sweep her trio of huge buff-colored funnels and brassy work of her upper decks. Her neighbor at Pier BC, the Canadian-Australasian liner Aorangi, in from the Antipodes, and due to sail at 10 a.m. tomorrow, also will be covered in a haze of floodlight glory tonight and will sail in full dress for her homeward trip.

Something of what the Coronation means to decorators, in terms of cost of material and labor, was conveyed here today by S. V. T. Jeffery, purchasing agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mr. Jeffery disclosed that stations, wharves and offices of his company in Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Kamloops, Penticton, Revelstoke, Nelson and Cranbrook have been decorated with 420,000 square feet of red, white and blue bunting; flags to an area of 238,308 feet, and shields to an area of 3,500 square feet.

Those figures do not include Hotel Vancouver here or the Empress Hotel in Victoria which attended to their own elaborate decoration, or the deep-sea or coastwise ships which will hoist flags from their own signal hoists.

HAIR SEAL BOUNTY UP

Dominion Government Will Pay $2.50 For Each Hair
Seal Caught This Year

The bounty of hair seals has been increased from $1.50 to $2.50 for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1938, according to a communication received by The Times this morning from Major J. A. Motherwell, chief supervisor of fisheries for the federal government in British Columbia.

"The bounty which will be paid during the current fiscal year ending March 31, 1938, will be at the rate of $2.50 per seal, on production of the nose in each case, as evidence," Major Motherwell's communication states.

"The amount available this year is $15,000, or twice as much as that made available during the preceding fiscal year."

"All claims received up to the total of $15,000 will be met, but should the claims exceed the above total amount, there will be no money available for payment in the case of the excess applications."

"During the preceding fiscal year's claims were received for only 1,933 seals, at a total cost of $2,899.50, of the $7,500 available. The rate, however, was only $1.50 per seal, but this year, with the increase to $2.50, it is expected this will be sufficient encouragement to result in many more seals being destroyed."
